

School May Spur North County Land Trade

By RON BATES

A land swap between Daly City and Pacifica, which has been discussed sporadically for the past three years, may be resolved soon because of construction of the new Franklin Delano Roosevelt school, pictured above.

The $666,136 building is scheduled to open in September. Whether such vital facilities as water, electricity, sewage facilities, roads and street lighting for the school will be permanent or temporary will depend on negotiations between the Daly City and Pacifica City councils.

At present time none of the facilities have been completed although the school is three-fourths completed.

Pacifica City Manager Karl Baldwin proposed last week that the councils begin negotiation at the first mutually convenient date possible.

The land swap would involve property on the opposing sides of the Edgemar Freeway.

Pacifica wants to trade 66 acres of land between the Pacifica Ocean and the Edgemar Freeway and adjacent to Daly City's southern boundary for 32 acres on the east side of the freeway.

The 32 acres, at the northern tip of the Fairmont subdivision, comprise a triangular-shaped parcel formed by the junction of the freeway and Skyline boulevard.

Both parcels of land are owned by the Henry Doelger company.

An M-shaped jagged boundary line along the 32-acre parcel of land prevents the Doelger firm from efficiently laying out that portion of the Fairmont subdivision. The line would bisect house lots and streets, according to Baldwin.

On the west side of the freeway, a large canyon north of the former Globe Wireless property would become the new boundary line between the two cities, according to the Pacifica proposal.

The Pacifica plan also calls for construction of a road from Westlake Terrace to the Pacific Manor Shopping Center.

Daly City officials disagree with this proposed line.

Daly City wants all of the land on the west side of the Edgemar Freeway, consisting of approximately 100 acres.

For the Doelger firm, it's a matter of finances. Daly City has a lot width requirement of 33 feet as compared to Pacifica's lot requirement of 40 feet—an approximate 18 per cent difference.

On an investment of $2-million, for example, the 18 per cent difference would amount to $360,000.

"Regardless of what the cities decide, the school will be taken care of," Daly City Mayor Joseph Verducci declared.

Dr. David Shapiro, assistant superintendent of business for the Jefferson Elementary School District, reported the school is 75 to 80 per cent completed.

"We are awaiting completion of improvements around the school by the Doelger firm," he said.

Doelger has promised to provide facilities for water, storm and sanitary sewers, drainage and erosion control, pumping stations, soil tests and engineering costs.

Council Will Air Charges

Charges by its former vice-chairman that Pacifica's Personnel Advisory board has reached the point "where it can't do any good" will be brought before the City Council for investigation, Mayor Harold Feyge announced this week.

Feyge said he felt some of the comments made last week by James Kafantaris were good and that his criticisms would be brought to the council for evaluation.

Neighbors Rap Speed In Pacifica

Meeting tonight, the Pacifica City Council will receive a petition from 40 residents of Manzanita and Alicante drives requesting action to prevent traffic accidents.

The Linda Mar residents are asking that a motorcycle patrolman be assigned to provide greater control of speeders in the city.

Two weeks ago, a small child was injured when struck by a careening auto while he was playing in his front yard.

The driver of the auto, a youthful soldier, was charged with felony hit-run and felony drunk driving.

Parents of the injured boy, Mr. and Mrs. John Geertsma of 1186 Alicante, are among signers of the petition.

The petition also asks the city to request Oddstad Homes to speed repair and completion of Terra Nova boulevard so that traffic to the high school will not be routed over steep and winding Alicante.

The residents also asked for a (Please See Page 2, Column 5)

City Hall Site Choice Near; Ranch Developers Ask Talks Two Locations Are Considered

Daly City officials may choose a site for a new city hall within two weeks, officials indicated Monday night.

The choice of sites for a hall has been narrowed from seven to two.

He discussed the sites and also presented the city's preliminary budget for 1963-64.

The budget calls for expenditures of $3,367,330.

Funds for the new city hall will come from the budget and from a loan from the State Retirement fund. A total of $250,000, accumulated over two years by the city, will be earmarked from the budget for the hall.

Total cost of the building will depend on the purchase price of the land and bids by contractors. The present city hall was built in 1939 when the city population was close to 10,000. A recent survey put the present population at 52,800, second largest in San Mateo county.

The new facility is expected to ease the cramped quarters of the police department and city offices.

JOHN B. DRYE Resigns Post

Drye Leaves City Board

The chairman of the Daly City personnel board, John B. Drye, submitted his resignation Monday at a meeting of the city council.

Drye said he has moved from Daly City to Westborough. He offered his resignation, effective Sunday.

The council accepted the resignation "regretfully" and instructed City Attorney Paul Hupf to draw up a resolution of commendation to Drye.

Drye moved right into public service in his new home by accepting a directorship in the Westborough water district last week.

He was first appointed to the personnel board in 1959 and has served as chairman for the past year.

He moved to Daly City in 1960 with his wife, Roberta, a city librarian, and ran unsuccessfully for councilman in 1962.

Daly City Role In Plans Sought

Developers of the 100-acre Christen Ranch lands asked the Daly City council Monday to take an active part in the general planning of the area.

Observers said the move may be one of the first steps toward annexation of the large unincorporated area to Daly City.

Carl Gellert, president of the Suburban Realty company, in a letter said his firm is ready to discuss the planning program with responsible Daly City representatives.

He said a general plan for the Christen Ranch development has been prepared by engineers, economists and planners.

The developers want the opportunity to present the plan in more detail and to receive the benefit of the council's experience and suggestions on how to proceed in the future.

The council received the move warmly and appointed a three-man committee, composed of Mayor Joseph Verducci, City Attorney Paul Hupf and City Manager Edward Frank, to meet with the planners.

Verducci said he was "very pleased" to hear of the request from the Suburban firm. "It is a move in the right direction," he said.

Councilman Michael DeBernardi, Verducci and some members of the staff have been making presentations to city groups on general plans that have been given to city officials on development of the ranch.

DeBernardi said he is willing to appear before any organization with maps to outline the developers' plans.

"The talks have been well received," he said, "and the people have come up with pertinent questions which will be brought back to the planners."

Bayshore To Ballot On Annex

Daly City's expansion to the east will be determined Tuesday when residents in Bayshore City go to the polls in a special annexation election.

Three voting places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. for the approximately 800 registered voters to cast their ballot for or against joining Daly City.

The polling places are at Bayshore Firehouse, 3001 Geneva avenue; Bayshore school auditorium, 155 Oriente street; and the administration building of the Housing Authority, 111 Two Jima road.

Of the 800 registered voters, 622 initially signed a petition requesting affiliation with Daly City.

WESTLAKE STORES OPEN WEDNESDAY AND FRIDAY NIGHTS

A Wild Ride to the Beach

Fate and the soft sand of the beach have left Mrs. Marie Hagler and three of her eight children alive and well after Pacifica's wildest ride of the year at 10:30 Sunday morning, two spine-tingling miles down Manor drive to the beach.

Mrs. Hagler and her husband, Louis, of 459 Inverness drive, Pacifica, had bought themselves a 1961 sedan for $50 just a week before to have for a second car while the first-line family auto was being repaired.

There was something wrong with the brakes, but they knew nothing about it until yesterday morning when Mrs. Hagler turned off Inverness, a block from home, onto Manor with the three children along headed for mass.

The car also was in overdrive, which left it with no engine compression to slow it down. Mrs. Hagler stepped on the brake pedal. It went to the floor with the car still picking up speed.

The old sedan was careening along at 80 miles an hour before Mrs. Hagler and her three screaming children knew it, with only chance preventing the well-traveled Manor drive from having much cross-traffic and playing children on it.

Dame fortune, however, rode with the 31-year-old housewife clear to the beach.

She shot through a green light at the traffic-congested Cabrillo highway, bounced through the shrubbery along the beach after which she and the children were slammed around the inside of the car when it rolled over in the sand and came to rest on a crushed top.

This was also the lucky day for two 14-year-old Sacramento girls, Marina Brunley and Linda Kline, whom the Hagler car missed by inches as it hit the sand.

Mrs. Hagler and son Arlo, 9, got out a window while the two girls, Debra, 11, and Laurie, 10, got out a door that had sprung open. The car had lost a wheel and gasoline was leaking.

All four were taken to Peninsula hospital where they were treated for cuts and bruises. Laurie had a touch of nausea and a bad cut on her head and was kept overnight for observation. The other three riders were sent home.

Pacifica police, who noted that the car had been in overdrive, also could find nothing haywire with the braking system — no leaks, no breaks in the lines, no nothing. But they too got no response from the pedal after righting the car and trying the brakes.

School May Spur Land Trade Move

T. V. Tronoff, civil engineer contracted by the Doelger firm to do its planning, said the agreement between the school district and the developer calls for "adequate facilities" for school operation.

"What permanent facilities can be installed will be," he said.

Tronoff said he feels certain the land exchange will take place.

In the meantime, water is being supplied to the school by Daly City on a metered rate, which is double the city rate, and a temporary sewer hookup has been requested from the North San Mateo county Sanitation District.

The school will be a "big plant" by elementary school standards, according to Shapiro. It will ultimately have 19 classrooms, one multi-use room, a kitchen, administrative offices, a library, a remedial room and two kindergartens.

It is the first school on the west side of the Skyline freeway and will serve about 1300 families or 800 children.

The first portion comprising eight classrooms is being constructed by Leon Carlen Contractors at a cost of $198,600.

The land was originally appraised at $539,000 with improvements. The Jefferson school district purchased it from the Doelger firm for $467,536.

The district paid approximately $4500 an acre for 18.66 acres, but received 19.53 acres.

Fred Schweichardt will leave his position of principal at George Washington - General Pershing schools to accept another double assignment as principal of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Jefferson Elementary schools.

Jefferson Board Approves Budget

Jefferson Union High school trustees at a meeting Monday night, approved a preliminary budget of $4,315,800 for 1963-64, calling for no increase in the tax rate.

In other action the trustees learned they will be permitted to use school bond funds to replace Westmoor High school's defective hot water heating system.

Next year's budget represents an increase of $485,426 over last year.

The cost of rehabilitation of Westmoor's heating system has been estimated at $130,000.

Jefferson trustees were informed by letter from the district attorney that they will be able to dip into their bond building fund to replace the school's underground piping with a new heating system on the roof of the building.

Accelerated deterioration of the underground piping in the six-year-old building can be expected, trustees have been told by engineers. Repairing leaks as they appear would be too costly and continuous, they said.

In presenting the tentative school district budget Monday night, Supt. Edward Morgan said that 75 per cent of the increase was in the teachers' salaries and 10 per cent in operating expenses. He said there will be 25 new teachers added to the present district faculty of 213. However, natural increase in tax income is expected to take care of the increased expenditures so there will be no need for an increase in tax rates, Morgan explained.

The budget is tentative until the district's assessed valuation is announced.

Trustees rejected demands from local 377, School Employees Union, AFL-CIO, for adjustments in the salary schedule of classified school employees while agreeing to provide a completely paid health and hospital plan.

Bids for the construction of additions to Terra Nova High school were opened Monday night. The low bidder was S. J. Amoroso Construction of San Francisco at $864,200. Since this figure is above the amount allowed by the state loan requirements, Jefferson trustees decided to take the matter under advisement for awarding contracts.

In other action Superintendent Morgan announced that demolition of the old Jefferson High school buildings began Monday.

Trustees notified city officials they had withdrawn their previous objection to William Lagomarsino's petition for rezoning to build apartments near Jefferson county superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Guido Merlino, 74 Vale street, Daly City, also spoke against the county plan.

She argued for "a divorce from the Laguna Salada district" and the opportunity for the Jefferson Elementary School district to unify on its own.

"I'm for home rule," she said. "The plan that will be on the ballot will not be the plan of our board but your plan."

She also criticized the high school board for voting for the county committee's plan at the last augmented meeting last month.

The four elementary boards voted against the plan to unify the five districts into one district encompassing the area of the high school district.

The high school board, with a district that would be split if the county committee's plan were not adopted, voted for it to "bring it to a vote of the people."

Bradley said the county committee early this year adjourned for 90 days in order to permit the five boards time to come up with an acceptable alternate plan.

"They could not agree among themselves," he said.

Not all the speakers were against the proposal.

Pacifica councilman Fred Ballew said: "I cannot possibly agree to saddle the people of my community with taxes which would be required to support Laguna Salada as a separate unified school district."

More State Aid Needed

or $102,000 more than in the current year.

The budget does not provide for salary increases. Teachers have requested a pay boost and the board has passed a resolution that would permit trustees to keep the salary question open after July 1.

Without the resolution, the salaries could not be considered after that date, according to a section of the state education code.

The preliminary budget must be adopted in final form by August 5. A public hearing will be scheduled next month.

In other action, the board voted to authorize the Associated Indemnity corporation to prepare a health insurance plan for district employees.

The district would assume the cost of the plan and the corporation would administer it.

Selection of the corporation followed the recommendation of trustee O. Wayne Douglas who headed a committee investigating merits of various companies in the field.

Douglas emphasized the plan should not be considered as something the board was giving employees instead of a pay increase.

chambers, city manager's offices and the city clerk's offices all are housed in the present two-story structure at Wellington and Brunswick streets.

The city treasurer's office and the finance director's offices are located in a separate building adjacent to the city hall.

The public works department and the recreation and parks department are located in the War Memorial Community center, three blocks away, on Hillside boulevard.

The preliminary budget of $3,387,330 is an increase of $177,942 over last year's figure.

The final budget and tax rate cannot be determined until after July 15, when the assessed valuation of properties within the city are certified by the county.

Salaries amount to $1,612,928; materials, supplies, services and operational charges amount to $959,622; capital outlay, $608,783; debt service, $78,465 and un-budgeted reserves $107,540.

Included in the budget are funds for five more personnel in the police department, four in the fire department, one employee in the central service and one parks utility man.

City Manager Edward Frank explained that a preliminary budget is necessary to carry on city business until final assessment figures are received from the county.

The city's fiscal year ends June 30.

Annex Vote Is Tuesday

has been active in promoting the annexation move.

At the same time, the committee has been waging a court case against the city of Brisbane, which annexed 10,000 acres of Bayshore industrial properties.

A simple majority vote is required to approve the annexation proposal, according to City Attorney Paul Hupf.

A negative vote would prevent Daly City from making any further annexation moves for one year.

Daly City officials sent a letter this week outlining the advantages of annexation.

Among the points listed were: Daly City is the second largest city in the county.

The County manager and the board of supervisors endorsed annexation.

Taxes for fire protection will double if Bayshore remains unincorporated.

Bayshore will benefit from additional services such as police, fire, public works projects, planned recreation and libraries.

Daly City is financially sound with less than one per cent of its assessed valuation in bonded indebtedness.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree in business administration from the University of San Francisco.

Drye lauded the work of the personnel board he has worked with for the past year.

"I'm proud of the progress that has been made in the field of personnel administration by this particular board."

"Several communities in the 50,000 population bracket have used the studies and surveys made by this board, particularly duty statements, as models."

He also cited the work of Dr. Paul Wolf, who has served as advisor to the board for the past year. Wolf is a professor at San Francisco State college in personnel administration.

7 ESCAPE INJURY

Explosion Rips Broadmoor Home

Broadmoor police this week were investigating an explosion that ripped through a one-story home at 731 Stewart street in Colma early Friday evening, moments after a family of seven had fled the house after smelling gas.

The explosion and fire that followed virtually demolished the building.

Investigators said escaping gas had filled the home and apparently was ignited by pilot lights on either a water heater or gas space heater.

Fire Chief George Riccomi said a failure in the gas line may have been caused by a firecracker set off in a vent pipe by pranksters.

Firemen from both Broadmoor and Daly City, using five pieces of equipment fought the flames.

The home had been occupied by Samuel J. Rizzo, his wife, Olga, and their seven children, ranging in age from two weeks to 18 years.

An odor of gas was first detected about 7:50 p.m. by one of the Rizzo children, Prudy, a 17-year-old Westmoor High school student who was washing dishes at the time.

She notified a neighbor, Mrs. James Jasper, 723 Stewart street, who phoned Broadmoor police.

Mrs. Jasper then hurried to the Rizzo home and after smelling gas, told everyone to get out of the building.

In the house at the time were Mrs. Rizzo, five of her children and two guests.

Mrs. Rizzo recently had returned from the hospital after giving birth by Caesarean section to her seventh child.

As the family ran from the house, a Broadmoor patrolman George Calton arrived and entered the home.

He left hurriedly after smelling gas and was 25 feet from the house when the explosion occurred. He said later the force of the blast knocked his cap off.

A neighbor, William Fallon of 715 Stewart, said he was watching a ball game on television when he heard the explosion. "I thought at first it was a sonic boom."

The blast rattled windows in a wide area.

Firefighters ordered houses on both sides of the Rizzo home evacuated when wind-whipped flames threatened both structures.

However, firemen were able to

White Street Appeal Seen

Jefferson Elementary school district officials indicated this week that an appeal probably will be filed as a result of a court decision, granting the county the right to extend White street in Daly City.

The decision was handed down last Tuesday by Superior Court Judge Edmund Scott after a two-day trial.

It permits the county to extend White street through property between the Benjamin Franklin and Garden Village schools.

The school district had opposed the extension, claiming that the land had been used as a playground and that this use had priority over a street.

Thomas Noonan, president of the district's board of trustees, said Monday night the district would consult with its attorney before making a final decision on an appeal.

Because the county district attorney's office was involved in the court suit, the district must use the services of its own attorney in pursuing the case further.

The county originally had acquired a 120-foot wide strip for a street to link Broadmoor Village with the Westlake shopping center.

When the county started to plan construction of the street extension, the school district filed an eminent domain suit.

The route of the extension was one of four alternate plans chosen by the county board of supervisors. None of the four had been acceptable to the school board.

Donations Welcome

Cash donations to aid the family of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Rizzo, left homeless by an explosion and fire that virtually destroyed their home Friday, may be left at Broadmoor police headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Rizzo and their seven children are staying with neighbors and relatives this week. They plan to move in with Rizzo's father in San Francisco this weekend until their home can be rebuilt.

Keep the flames from spreading. Riccomi said investigators were looking into the possibility that pranksters had stuffed a firecracker into a vent leading to a gas meter in a garage adjoining the house.

He said it appeared the meter had ruptured, permitting gas to flow freely into the building.

The explosion blew off the roof over both the garage and the kitchen portion of the house.

Hall Convicted Of Cliff Killing

Joseph Pharr Hall, 25-year-old Pacifica father of two, was convicted Thursday of second-degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. Lillian Wales.

A jury of four women and eight men returned the verdict in the courtroom of Superior Judge James T. O'Keefe in Redwood City after more than 10 hours of deliberation.

When Clerk Mura Stilleson read the verdict, Hall lowered his head and started to cry. His wife, Judith, who was seated two rows back of the defendant, cried audibly.

Judge O'Keefe scheduled sentencing for 4 p.m. next Wednesday. The penalty is five years to life in state prison.

Hall admitted killing the 56-year-old Mrs. Wales but said it was an accident. He said on the day of the killing, March 11, he had drunk about 25 beers. Mrs. Wales, he said, was also drunk.

Hall said they fought and he hit her and knocked her out. When he could not revive her, he testified, he determined to his satisfaction that she was dead and threw her body over the ocean cliff at Mori's Point in Pacifica.

Defense Attorney John Putkey argued for a manslaughter verdict. The prosecutor, Deputy District Attorney Allison Rouse, did not press for a particular degree of murder but insisted that the killing was murder. Second-degree murder implies the lack of premeditation.

The jury foreman, Werner Groshans, said several ballots were taken but refused to discuss them with newsmen. He said no one voted for acquittal at any time but declined to say whether the choice was between first and second-degree murder or second-degree and manslaughter.

Jury Mulls Bet Cases

A special meeting of the county grand jury was called Monday night to hear evidence against six alleged bookies arrested in a raid May 24.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson said he asked for the jury session for two reasons—to save the several days of time separate preliminary hearings in municipal court would take, and "to acquaint the jurors with the type of operation of the bookies and with the efforts of law enforcement against them."

Sorenson's men, local police and federal agents took part in the raids. Those arrested and the location of the arrests: Charles M. O'Neil, 34, 170 Third avenue, Daly City; Gene Findley, 32, 20, 24 Market street, Daly City; Charles Tibbatts, 41, 512 A street, Sal Prieto, 44, 1240 El Camino Colma.

Grandfather Enters Plea

Anthony R. McCoy, 51-year-old Daly City grandfather, pleaded innocent last week to a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of his two-year-old grandson June 14.

McCoy waived examination in North District Municipal Court in South San Francisco. His case was referred to superior court.

He is being held in San Mateo county jail. Daly City police say McCoy has confessed bludgeoning his grandson to death with a ballpeen hammer.

The boy, Robert Salas, son of Mrs. Maureen Salas of 207 Los Banos avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at Kaiser Foundation hospital in South San Francisco.

The child, his mother and McCoy had been living at the Los Banos address for about a year and a half.

Open House at Phone Building

Pacific Telephone will hold Open House at its new Pacifica headquarters at 325 Reina del Mar from 6 to 10 this evening.

In a "behind the scenes" guided tour, Pacificans will see new equipment recently installed in the $2,070,000 service improvement project.

Last month, after the new headquarters was opened, Pacificans were able to dial all calls directly, including long distance, for the first time.

In a special space communications exhibit, Pacificans will see a demonstration of Teletar, showing how TV beams bounce off a satellite and back to earth.

Also on display will be telephones of the future and exhibits of other scientific advances in communications.

Telephone construction crews will stage a demonstration showing how cables are spliced and strung and the work that was involved in building the new headquarters.

Inside the building, a demonstration of how message units are recorded and of how an individual monthly telephone bill is computed will be given.

Henry Kowal, district manager for Pacific Telephone, said he thinks Pacificans will be surprised at the amount of equipment in the new headquarters and what it can do.

retary; Nita Buchanan, vice president and Lytle Plante, treasurer. Outgoing president Lloyd Sitts was honored by the membership. More than 50 members and their wives and guests attended. (Post-Times photo)

R. C. OWENS is a public relations man with the J. C. Penney company. During the off-season, he catches footballs for the Baltimore Colts.

I know R. C. is an end because I saw him make catches with the 49ers that no other end in football could have made. This made me a believer in Owens as an end.

I know R. C. is a public relations man because he told me. And I believe what he told me because I interviewed him for close to an hour last week when he was working at Penney's in Westlake, and he must have mentioned the word "Penney" 100 times without my resenting it. This made me a believer in Owens as a public relations man.

R. C.'s job with Penney's is not a promotional stunt or part of the "deal" the Colts offered him when he signed with them last year.

"Public relations," said R. C. with a smile so amiable, it made one wonder how defensive backs could bear to slam him from behind, "is my second career, now, and will eventually be my only career. I've been after this particular job for three years now. (Note: Owens started with Penney's at the first of the year.)

"I got it on my own when a position was available, with no more help from the Colts than a good recommendation. Penney's checked on my character, background, etc."

His job is not a seasonal one, said Owens, who is the antithesis of the big dumb football player.

"When football season comes, I play football and do as much work for Penney's as I can without it interfering with my football playing. The Colts don't mind as long as I do it on my own time, and my bosses at Penney's understand the problem, so they don't make great demands of me. It's a happy arrangement all around."

R. C. OBVIOUSLY meant that he's happy, too. A College of Idaho graduate, it's apparent the articulate Owens didn't go there to play football and wind clocks. He majored in both education and psychology and figured that with that background and his love for talking, people and travel, public relations would be just the job for him. Owens, in other words, has always known exactly where he was headed.

Working, technically, out of the main Penney office in New York ("playing with Baltimore keeps me ideally close to New York and Washington"), R. C. travels all over the country, and is ready to hop a plane from anywhere to anywhere he's needed on a moment's call.

He talks to non-college 17 and 18-year-old kids who are seeking possible futures with Penney's. He speaks at schools. In general, he floats, spreading the good name of his company.

"But it isn't just a hand-shaking job," said R. C. with conviction. "I really work with people. If I'm in a Penney's store when there's some sort of personnel problem, for instance, I may be called upon to help straighten it out. Penney's isn't merely using my name but whatever talent in this field I may have. Why, I often go into stores and work with floor clerks who have never even heard of me."

This writer can attest to that. When I walked into the store to interview R. C. last week, I asked a lady in the woman's undies division—or whatever you call that department—where R. C. Owens could be found.

"Who?" she asked.

"R. C. Owens."

"Never heard of that brand."

Owens, who divides living time with his family (his wife, Tina, just had a baby girl) between Baltimore and Belmont, doesn't figure on quitting football in the near future. But recognizing, on the other hand, that his other career is a tenuous one, at best, he isn't exactly planning on a long career, either.

"In this game," he said, "you play it a year at a time."

OWENS ISN'T really pessimistic, however. While he admits that it's no fun to be belted from your blind side while you're going after a pass, unprotected, in mid-air, he figures that running backs have it tougher.

"The real good ones, especially. They get aimed for, piled on, and generally abused. Knees go mighty quick when you're ramming your body full force into a couple tons of solid flesh bent on burying you where you stand."

Owens figures that the roughest duty in football is to act as a decoy.

"Then you get belted without even having the ball," he said, shuddering at the unfairness of it all. He has a reason to shudder. In his last game with the 49ers, he was whacked when the ball was on the other side of the field.

"I went out like a light," said R. C., "without ever knowing what hit me."

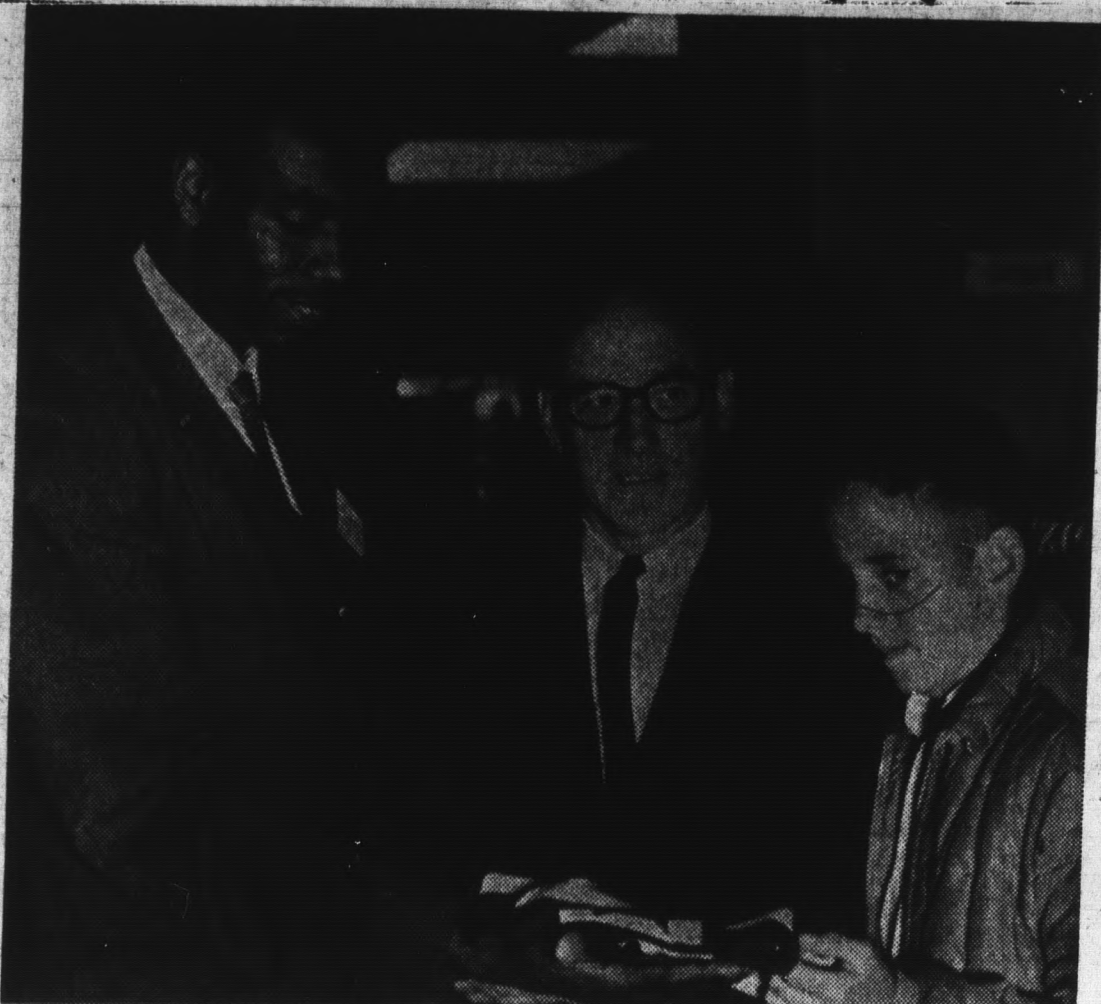

I know one thing. If public relations' man Owens would have had the opportunity to talk to his assailant prior to the incident, football player Owens not only wouldn't have been tackled but that mean defensive back probably would have ended up buying stock in J. C. Penney.

Billy O'Dell, who once won as many as 19 games in a single season, is standing by his car, adamantly—if not rudely—refusing to autograph various objects for a small group of pre-teens, teen-agers, and even one female adult.

SCENE: Opening game of 1962 World Series at Candlestick Park. Joe DiMaggio, Hall of Fame member, is patiently autographing various objects for streams of people who don't even have the decency to allow the man to watch the game. DiMaggio is smiling at them and THANKING THEM as he autographs.

No further comment.

The former 49er star, now with the Baltimore Colts, got a unique father's day present from his wife. The Belmont couple had their second child, a boy, at Mills hospital.

Giants Take American Lead; Dodgers Win 2

The PAL Cardinals and the OLM Leopards last week continued to wage a fierce battle for first place in the Midget-National league, the PAL Giants held a slim lead over the OLM Golds in the Midget-American league and the PAL Dodgers continued to dominate the Intermediate league in baseball sponsored by the Daly City recreation department.

Here is a rundown of the week's highlights:

MIDGET-NATIONAL
Fans of the national division of the Midget league are being treated to a great race for the roses between the PAL Cardinals and the OLM Leopards. The Birds now hold a one-game lead that could be evened up at any time.

On the heels of both stalk the Bender Roofing Cats. Climbing back into the win column by defeating the improved Holy Angels Colts this week, the Cats moved up in percentage points.

Jean Guzman was the winning pitcher for the Cats, allowing three hits.

The OLM Leopards shut out the PAL Braves, 10-0.

The Braves took revenge on the PAL Indians by shutting them out in a 13-0 ball game. After being shut out in three ball games, the Braves pounded the ball. Fourteen Braves hits were turned into 13 Braves runs.

Jimmy Gentile did some fancy fielding and throwing to make the play of the game on a put out at third from right field.

MIDGET-AMERICAN
For the third week in a row, The American division of the Midget league has a different team in the top spot. Cornell Holmes has coached his PAL Giants into a slight percentage lead.

The Giants, with a .643 record, edged out the OLM Golds with a .636 average.

Abe Shaffer got the call for mound service against the Holy Angels Lions and held them to four hits that accounted for two runs. Final score: Misracks 4, Lions 2.

Shaffer was again called upon later in the week to face the OLM Dons. Steady pitching by Shaffer and timely hitting by Donald Miller, Dale Hilsendager and Shaffer enabled Misracks to edge out the Dons, 5-4.

Shaffer won his fifth ball game of the season, giving up five hits, walking four and fanning 11.

The Giants tightrope-walked into first place with a couple of close wins.

Bill Gregory got the call against the Redsox and held them to four hits and a walk. Three of the four hits came in the last inning as the Redsox surged to within one run of the Giants.

The Giants won, 5-4. Fred Balto hit a bases-loaded triple to come within a whisker of pulling the game out of the fire.

coached by Rock Kubowitz picked up a pair last week. In a pitcher's duel, Kubowitz had to go to the bullpen to pull the Dodgers game with Ben Franklin Press out of the fire.

Kubowitz had the Dodgers' razor for their game with the Bender Roofers. He called upon Russ "Special Delivery" Runge who came through with 12 strikeouts and gave up four scattered hits to shutout the Roofers.

Bobbie Giorgetti made hero of the week for the Dodgers with a running, diving catch that took the ball at grass level to rob Steve Bock of a possible homer.

Guy Kubowitz came up with his fifth double play of the season. Mike Dowdle blasted another homer with two aboard. Scooter Perrone and Jeff Becker accounted for the other two RBIs. Final: Dodgers 4, Bender Roofers 0.

'Lob-Ball' Is Planned

The Daly City Department of Recreation is forming an adult "lob ball-soft ball" league.

Persons interested in forming teams should contact the department at PL 5-0850.

Rules of the game are similar to softball with the exception that the ball must rise above the batter's shoulders when it is pitched. "The rules are designed to present the least amount of hazard and the maximum amount of enjoyment to the participant," according to Supervisor Edward Tomasello.

Raiders Get Kicking Star

General Manager-Head Coach Al Davis announced yesterday change for these rights the Raiders of the Oakland Raiders of the American Football league traded Pennington totaled 19 points as a with the Dallas Texans for the rights to player Durward Pennington, kicking specialist from field goals. He is 23 years old.

Barbieri, Christman All NCAA

The strength of San Francisco State college's 1963 Far Western conference championship baseball team was clearly demonstrated when the Gators placed five players on the 16-man all-star team announced by District 8 of the NCAA college division.

The SFSC players named to the squad were Darrell Harrellson, San Leandro freshman, third base; Bob Baird, Lindsay, shortstop; Wayne Service, San Francisco, catcher; Ken Barbieri, San Mateo, outfielder, and Terry Christman, Daly City, pitcher.

The team is selected by baseball coaches of NCAA college division members of the eighth district which consists of California, Alaska, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon and Washington. This was the first baseball all-star squad named by the district.

The San Francisco State champions gained additional luster when three of their all-stars were signed by big league teams. Harrellson signed with the New York Mets, Barbieri with the New York Yankees and Service with the Chicago White Sox.

Berryessa Races Set

The 1963 Northern California Outboard Racing championships will be held on Sunday, July 21, at Steele Park, on the south shore of Lake Berryessa in Napa county. C. Paul Sutterley, park manager, announced.

The outboard racing championships will climax a four-day Midsummer Water Carnival celebration, July 18-21, calling attention to the grand opening of the new resort community.

Among the new facilities already built or nearing completion at Steele Park are a concrete boat launching ramp, boat docks and complete boating facilities, swimming, water skiing and fishing areas, restaurant, cocktail lounge and general store, miniature golf course, riding stables, amphitheatre, swimming lake with sand beach, mobile home park, campsites, new motel and cottages.

Destruction Derby Slated

First major "destruction derby" in northern California, with 50 to 60 old cars smashing together for cash prizes, has been scheduled Sunday, July 14, as feature of the Alameda county Fair in Pleasanton.

Drivers and cars will compete in teams of four in the season-opening derby event, third year the opener has been at Pleasanton, ramming cars into each other in four quarter-hour periods until just one car remains running at the end.

SERRA BOWL

Serra Bowl

SERRA'S "300" Scratch Doubles league for ladies had its share of good bowling this past week. Rose Intaschi posted the high game of the day with a 221 midway in her 483 series as her Team 7 swept all three games from Team 2. Ellie Torrigino took top series honors with a 205-557 trio for Team 6, which defeated Team 10 by a two-to-one margin. Jo Record blasted 214-494 for Team 9 which, despite her efforts, were downed two games to one by Team 5.

John Avanzino again led the Sunday morning Father and Son league with a nifty 212-600 series.

Top scores in the first week of shooting in Serra's Friday afternoon 3-6-9 tournament, for ladies only were as follows: Rebecca Cascino, 126 average, toppled tallies of 185, 182, and 184 and added a hefty 148 pin handicap to total 689 and take home first place money. Isabel McPherson posted 682 for second, and Doretha Jackson bagged third spot with a 667 series.

Bernie Santos tagged lanes 21 and 22 for an even 600 series Thursday night in the Sharpshooters league on a 214 high game.

In B. & G. Mixed 5's action, Bino's Bombers blasted all four points from Rogers Texaco which, strangely enough, boasted the league's high roller in the person of Frank Morabe who missed "600" honors by a single stick on a 239-599 series.

Westlake Bowl

NORMA BALDELLI and Rich Merlo were last week's winners in the Wednesday night 3-6-9 Mixer as Norma led the ladies with 681 while Rich topped the men with 680. Second place went to June Tarczy for her 653 series and husband Gene for his 673 in the men's division.

Teams are being chosen for the grudge match of the year between Judge Frank Blum's "dispensers of justice" and a team of other judges from the southern part of the county. The occasion will be a part of the fifth annual Daly City Police Athletic League Benefit tournament now in progress.

Helen Noone joined the select group of ladies who are members of the Westlake 600 club when she led the Ladies' 650 Classic league with a 601 series on a high game of 213.

Carol Meier was a repeat leader in the Stonestown Emporium league last Tuesday night, this time with a 195 game and 445 series.

Another repeater was Joe Barros as he topped the 815 Scratch league with a 208 game and 574 series.

Emily Drago's 686 total won first prize for her in the Scratch league with a 208 game and 574 series.

EMILY DRAGO'S 686 total won first prize for her in the Monday afternoon 3-6-9 singles with Barbara Castronova second and Rose Jachetta third. Peg Miller took the prize for high game out of the money with 192 while mystery prizes went to Evelyn Goldkuhl and Dolly Patt.

The Wednesday night Westlake Knolls league found Angelo Baldelli leading the way with 573 series on a high game of 207.

The daytime leagues have switched to trio teams for the summer and it seems that the scores are improving. In the Tuesday trio, Jean Magliano led the ladies with 156 and 431 while on Wednesday morning, Martha Lauer rolled 167 and 472 to take top honors. Thursday before lunch found Elena Mould leading the Trio with 181-456 while Mary Nelson led the Early Quads with 200-518.

In the Early Quads league not one but two ladies converted the extremely difficult 6-7-10 split as Jean Kue and Ethel Sierievers performed the trick.

A new feature of this year's PAL tournament is the award of trophies for team prizes. Any five bowlers competing on a pair of lanes may compete for the trophies by registering before bowling at no additional cost.

JUNE TARCZY and husband Gene were back on the strike team last week as June took first place in the Friday No-Tap Sweeper with a total of 831 while Gene led the Southgate Mixed Fives with a 183 game and 545 series.

Christen Ranch: What Annex Would Mean

By RON BATES

IF THE sprawling 900-acre Christen ranch lands come into Daly City, it will almost double the assessed valuation and add 20,000 new residents to the city's population of almost 53,000.

The estimated valuation of the Christen lands is $51-million, as compared to Daly City's present total assessed value of $60-million.

These were some of the facts and figures brought out by Daly City Councilman Michael DeBernardi last week in a presentation to businessmen at the Daly City-Columbia chamber of commerce luncheon at the Cypress Hills Golf Club.

DeBernardi, assisted by Mayor Joseph Verducci, Finance Director Joseph Arch and City Engineer William Chapman, outlined preliminary plans for development of the area by the Suburban Realty company.

The plans call for a large regional shopping center, high-rise apartments, multiple-family dwellings and 1500-single family homes.

DeBernardi emphasized to the businessmen that no annexation papers have been applied for by the developers and that the plans for the area are still in a preliminary stage.

The intent of the presentation, Verducci said, was to keep people informed on development and plans for the area.

Remembering the council's experience in an attempted annexation of the Westborough lands, Verducci said:

"Let's argue about this thing in the open. Let's get both sides of the issues and come up with the best possible solution for all of us."

The Christen properties are bounded on the east by Junipero Serra freeway, on the west by Skyline boulevard and on the north by the St. Francis Heights area.

The south end of the properties will abut the Westborough development.

VERDUCCI lauded the planning program of the Suburban Realty firm, a company formed by Standard Builders and Crocker Land companies.

"To the pleasure of our city engineer, the developers have brought in three different groups to draft the plans for the area — economists, engineers and planners."

In only one other annexation, that of Westlake, did the developers come in to the city with a complete use plan, he said.

The regional shopping center, comparable with the Stonestown and Hillsdale complexes, will be built at the approximate intersection of Eastmoor avenue and the new Junipero Serra freeway.

DeBernardi said the developers have estimated that approximately 205,000 cars will pass that intersection daily.

Planners, using sales tax figures, have determined that a regional shopping center of the planned size can be supported, he said.

One of the chamber businessmen asked about the effect of the huge center on businesses already in the city.

"I don't think it will hurt the businessmen very much," finance director Joseph Arch replied. "The shoppers who will go to the regional shopping center are the people who now go to Stonestown and Hillsdale. It will draw people in from San Francisco and from all over San Mateo county."

On taxes, Arch said: "The city will benefit in two ways. By getting a regional shopping center, we will get both sales and property taxes."

The effect would be an overall equalization of taxes and in many cases a lowering of taxes, he explained.

FOUR ELEMENTARY schools and one high school will be located in the developed land.

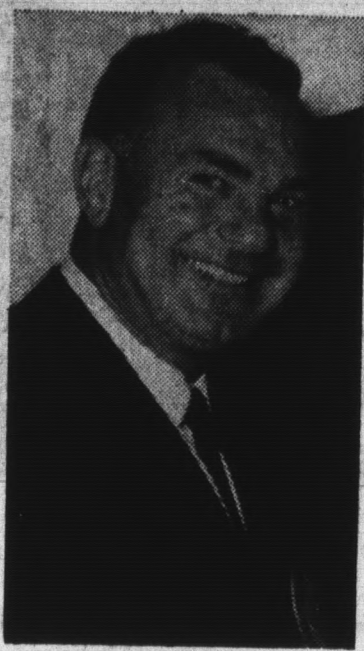

One elementary school will be in the Jefferson Elementary school district and three elementary schools and a high school will be located in the South San Francisco Unified school district.

When asked if the four South San Francisco district schools would be brought into the two Jefferson districts if the land were annexed, Verducci said it would be up to negotiation between the districts.

"They are autonomous entities," Verducci said. "The city would be obligated to service them no matter what district they're in."

The Jefferson High school district, for example, takes care of students from Daly City, Pacifica, Bayshore and Brisbane, he said.

DeBernardi used a color-coded

map in his presentation which he said was the seventh map made by the developers.

The map was the same one used in a preview given to government, business and school leaders three weeks ago by the developers.

The city's technical staff hasn't had an opportunity to go through the map and thoroughly analyze it, Verducci said. But they have been alerted to the plans that have been presented and have been asked for a report on their needs.

"What isn't on the map are such things as reservoirs, recreational facilities, fire stations and libraries," Verducci said. "These are the things we will be talking about" with the developers.

According to Verducci, the city hopes to annex the lands with the zoning done according to the final map.

"We've seen pretty maps before," Verducci said, "with supporting facts and figures. We are concerned with seeing that these proposed land use maps are followed once the land is brought into the city." And he added:

"We've got to insure the community that what they (the developers) say they are going to do, they will do."

Letters From Our Readers

To the Editor:

The final curtain of festivities for the 1963 graduates of Terra Nova High school came down with a resounding success. The noteworthy event was the All Night Party sponsored by the Terra Nova P-TA.

On behalf of the P-TA, a sincere note of thanks to the many individuals who endeavored so diligently and efficiently to achieve the success of this party.

There were at least 75 volunteers who participated in person and there were also many more "behind the scene" helpers who donated their services for several weeks before without recognition.

"Bouquets" to the Pacifica Police department, the Jefferson Union High school district, the school's administration, office staff and custodians, parents, friends, the Jesters and the press, all of whom have given this affair excellent assistance, coverage and publicity.

Reluctantly at 7 a.m. June 15, the graduates and their guests walked away from Terra Nova High school with another nostalgic memory tucked away for posterity, but the happy looks on the faces of the revelers made us believe it was a job well done and a pleasure to serve them.

Mrs. Bernice Monin,
Chairman All Night Party.

To the Editor:

To the Editor,
The Westlake Y-Wives, sponsored by the YMCA have had a varied program this year to offer the women in the community and the publicity your paper published for the group was a great help to let the public know what was available.

On behalf of the Y-Wives and myself, we wish to thank The Post, which helped make the weekly get-togethers a success.

25% more horsepower; 0% more gas.

There's a new air-cooled engine in the Volkswagen Station Wagon.

Bigger. (25% more horsepower.) More powerful. (With larger brakes to rein it in.)

More efficient, too. (We still average 24 miles to a gallon of regular gas.)

Hard to believe, but true: it costs as little to run as the engine it's replacing.

The amount of water and anti-freeze it needs is still zero. (No radiator to freeze up or boil off.) Oil: still zero between changes.

The rest of this station wagon? Inside, it's got the same room: about twice that of the largest conventional wagon. Outside, it's a good 4 feet shorter than the conventional wagon.

Add 3 five-foot seats, side doors that open wide, 23 windows and a sunroof. And you've got the biggest little bargain on wheels.

Sugar 'n' Spice

By Nell Norton

WE ARE all interested in new ways to use hamburger, for it is surely the favorite of favorites with budget-minded cooks. And aren't we all in that category?

Checking through my recipe files, I've found two recipes that really make ground meat something special and I'd like to share them with you.

BEEF STROGONOFF

- 1 lb. ground meat
- 1/2 cup minced onion
- 1 clove garlic
- 1/4 cup butter
- 2 Tbsp. flour
- 2 teas. salt
- 1/4 teas. pepper
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, fresh or canned
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 1 cup sour cream
- 2 Tbsp. minced parsley

Saute onion and garlic in butter. Add ground meat, brown. Then mix in the flour, salt, pepper and mushrooms, cook five minutes. Add the cream of chicken soup, simmer uncovered for 10 minutes. Stir in sour cream. Delicious served with noodles.

With summer here, we all think about the fun of outdoor cooking. Steaks, naturally, are delicious cooked over an outdoor grill. Ground meat, too, can be something special if you try this method of preparing them ahead.

HAMBURGERS A LA

- 1-3 cup olive oil
- 1-3 cup catsup
- 1-8 teas. tabasco
- 1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1-3 cup water
- 1 Tbsp. liquid smoke
- 1 teas. sugar
- 1 teas. flour
- juice of 1/2 lemon
- 1 teas. salt
- 1/4 teas. pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 1/2 lbs. ground meat

Mix all these ingredients together and add to the ground meat. Let stand in the refrigerator 24 hours to season. Make into patties and cook. Cover with this sauce:

SAUCE

- 1/4 cup A-1 sauce
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1/4 cup catsup
- 2 medium onions, grated
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 teas. celery seed
- 3-4 teas. salt
- 1/2 teas. nutmeg
- 1/4 teas. cloves
- 1/4 teas. pepper

Mix all together and serve on buns with hamburgers.

WHETHER YOU are serving hamburgers or beef Stroganoff or steak, this cole slaw would go nicely. Mrs. Cecil Collins of 1674 Thirty-second avenue, San Francisco, sent me this recipe and recommends that we also try the second version, using the jello.

TWO WAY SALAD

Creamy Cole Slaw

- 1/4 cup sour cream
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 Tbsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. dry mustard
- 4 cups shredded cabbage
- 1 Tbsp. minced onion

Combine sour cream, mayonnaise, lemon juice, sugar, mustard, salt and pepper. Gently toss cabbage and onion with dressing. Makes four servings.

Molded Cole Slaw Salad

- 1 pkg. lime or lemon jello
- 1 1/4 cup hot water
- 1 Tbsp. vinegar

Dissolve the jello in the water and add the vinegar. Cool. Then add half the cole slaw recipe to this slightly thickened mixture. You may add one cup of crab meat if you like. Cell says this is good served with this sour cream dressing:

SOUR CREAM DRESSING

- 1 small tub sour cream
- 1 glass Roka cheese
- 1 glass mayonnaise (cheese glass)
- garlic (if desired)

Whip all together and refrigerate.

Pacifica's College Women

By LOIS McNALLY

IN A SMALL suburban town, one would expect that a housewife, busy raising children and keeping up her home and garden, would find a college degree of questionable value.

Not so in Pacifica where some 65 women college graduates, members of the American Association of University Women, have put their college education and experiences to work for the benefit of the community.

In the past year, under the energetic leadership of president Nancy Finken, of 831 Dell road, the group has been involved in city-wide projects—taking members exploring into politics, city government, schools, libraries and the cultural and recreational needs of the city.

When there was a movement to pass a local ordinance requiring city committee and commission members to resign when running for elective office, members of the AAUW stepped in. They asked the city council to let them prepare a comprehensive report, studying the experiences of other cities with such a policy.

Legislative study chairman Mary Henderson of 1046 View way went to work with her committee members, soliciting information by letter, phone and personal interview from nine San Mateo county cities, as well as Palo Alto and Saratoga, the League of Women Voters, the League of California Cities and the National Municipal League.

In her thoroughness, Mrs. Henderson talked by phone with the city manager of Eureka, a city which had such a "quit policy" and is now thinking of abandoning it.

The conclusion of the report, subsequently adopted by the Pacifica city council, was that a policy requiring commissioners to resign would serve no useful purpose and might discourage potential leadership.

City councilmen told Mrs. Henderson that the report was the best they had ever seen prepared and submitted by a citizen group.

The obviously charmed councilmen might also have added that pretty, soft-spoken Mary Henderson was the most attractive petitioner to come before the council in some time.

NOT BOUQUETS but brickbats were received by AAUW members this spring when they took an active part in the Laguna Salada school board election, endorsing two of five candidates.

Some of the AAUW members questioned the propriety of the organization's taking a partisan stand in the election. In the heat of campaign debate, AAUW members were even accused of being a "political machine."

The fact that a number of Pacifica AAUW members also are teachers in the Laguna Salada school district was raised as a possible conflict of interest.

(Mrs. Finken answers that teachers were not members of the committee that chose the candidates for endorsement.)

AAUW members became involved in the school board election by a concern in getting well-qualified people, especially women, to run. The organization had also supported activity of the present school board chairman, Ruth Boudinot, an active AAUW member.

This spring, AAUW members contacted some 22 citizens.

Those interested and with good qualifications were urged to run. In the final balloting, one of the AAUW candidates, Dr. Rodney Clark, won and it was said he did so through largely the enthusiastic efforts of his AAUW backers.

However, the other candidate endorsed, Dale Ernde, husband ran last in the field of five.

The program will be held Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Sharon building in Golden Gate park, near Third avenue and Lincoln boulevard in San Francisco.

Approximately 40 persons heard John Mongan, principal of Jefferson High school speak at the first organized meeting of Daly City's new North Peninsula circle for the Florence Crittenton home, according to Mrs. Doris Plant, publicity director.

Auxiliary members, meeting in the War Memorial building, heard Mongan describe the changing circumstances surrounding the problem of unwed mothers in suburban society.

In his remarks, he emphasized the shift from a war time pattern to a new problem involving younger girls with more complex emotional problems.

The circle, which will function as a go-between for the Florence Crittenton home and the community, discussed fund raising projects and began studying the possibility of providing volunteers for the Still Stylish shop, a used clothing operation that helps support the activities of the home, one or two days a week.

Louanne's Datebook

By Louanne Heath

VACATION season madness has descended upon more than one household with the advent of summer vacation but activity at the Donald Andrew household in South San Francisco seems to be especially hectic.

Even though Mrs. Andrews is busy teaching in vacation church school in San Francisco, both she and her husband have been actively working for the passage of school bond issues and entertaining house guests as well.

Virginia and Robert Pavelka, who with the other 90 members of the Valentine, Nebraska High school band marched in the Portland, Ore., Rose parade, have arrived at the Andrews' home for a visit with their aunt and uncle and cousins Stevan and Loretta.

While they are here, Virginia will apply for admission to Stanford university and then the youngsters will prepare for a tour of the Southwest with their grandmother, Mrs. Blanche Reese of Redlands, who also is a guest at the Andrews' home.

Mrs. Reese has been helping Sylvia with her church school work while awaiting the arrival of Virginia and Robert, but she now plans to be their chauffeur as they visit Mexico and Yosemite, Grand Canyon, Bryce and Zion National parks and then return to their home.

THE MANY Westlake friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Sorensen and their children were saddened when the family moved from this area this past week end. The Sorensens plan to summer in Capitola while they wait for their Mills Estate home to be completed, sometime early this fall.

IMMEDIATELY following the closing of school for the summer, Mrs. Conte Gressani and Mrs. Dennis Banks gathered together their children and left for a week of fun and relaxation in the sun at Forest lake in Lake county.

Usually it's the children who catch every disease in the book just as the vacation season gets underway but Mrs. Monte Hill of Westlake decided to beat her youngsters at their own game. Last week she blossomed forth with the most obvious case of mumps imaginable. To date the children have escaped infection!

ROZZIE COLEMAN, Charlotte Levine and A. H. Kazarian were the winners of gift certificates at the Westlake birthday party and Robert Bosetti and A. V. Desman won radios at the same celebration. The gifts had been presented by the Westlake Music center and winners were selected each hour during the continuing musical program.

OTHERS WHO helped establish a party atmosphere at Westlake Shopping center's 12th anniversary were the Rainbow Girls from Skyline assembly. Those members who helped Worthy Advisor Cheryl Neugebauer serve the 6000 pieces of birthday cake and coffee were: Jan Washburn, Phyllis Diltz, Carol Hilton, May Hueise, Ruth Ann Hueise, Trudy Josslyn, Deloris Wise, Eugenia Murphy, Janice Kernan, Pat Pastras, Donna Neugebauer, Cathy Svani, Arlene Plansky, Nancy Jarvis, Mary Merkle, Sue Dupport and Dawn Klevesahl.

According to Cheryl, the girls of the assembly are now preparing for a campout in Willets July 19, 20 and 21, a friendship night with the girls from the Sabastopol assembly August 4.

The girls will be hostesses for the friendship night and will follow it with a tour of San Francisco the next day, Cheryl announced.

THIS WEEK, the sick list includes the name of Broadmoor Patrol member Irving Schwarz who has been ill.

MRS. DOROTHY BERGIN, publicity chairman for the Memory lane fashion show being planned by the Mothers club of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, reports that not only are most of the past presidents going to be on hand for the show October 19, but also that a large number of charter members will attend. Among the later group will be the first recording secretary, Mrs. Lorraine Wall, still an active member of the club.

Mrs. Bergin expressed the wish of the show's sponsors that many women who have become inactive in the club will return for this reunion party and fashion extravaganza.

MR. AND MRS. ANTHONY LONGO and their three children were the guests of two local families recently. The Longos spent Thursday night and Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lombardi and their children. Dr. Longo and Lombardi were high school chums who have maintained a close friendship over the years.

Then Friday night and Saturday, the Dick Bonomis, also long time friends, were hosts to the Longos and later saw them off on their return trip to Sacramento.

JUNE 3, the members of Brownie troop 182 and their mothers met in the home of Mrs. Arlene Lipman for their fly-up tea and the presentation of several gifts.

Mrs. Anita Bush, troop leader and Mrs. Gloria McDermott, co-leader, were presented with gold charm bracelets and Brownie charms and the mothers each received a cigarette holder of old sea shells, all hand made by the troop members.

Flying up to become full-fledged Girl Scouts were: Debbie Ostrow, Michele Nessler, Joan McDermott, Karen O'Neill, Pat Ghiselle, Mary Ann Bush, Kathy Lamp, Diane Lipman, Judy Weingarten, Nancy Benone, Susan Houghton, Lenore Hamlin and Debra Ross.

Teenager Asks . . .

By JOE BAVARESCO

Dear Mr. Bavaresco:
I am 17 years old and I am worried about my appearance. For example, I am going into the sales field as a career and I want to always look and dress properly. I realize how important this is. Where do I start? I don't want to be offensive.

Worried
Dear Mr. Bavaresco:
I am 14 years old and I like a boy who likes me, but my parents say we are too young to get serious. What do you think?

In Love
Dear Mr. Bavaresco:
At 14 years, you are talking of love? After 14 years on earth you are ready to settle down with one guy and plan marriage? You are that experienced in love and life that you can decide that this is the one and only? And in 14 years of living you are not willing to date anyone else?

You must be kidding or living in a dream world. Date him, yes, but have a ball; don't talk serious or even use the word love. You are too emotional. Watch your step or you'll fall and if you keep falling you may never get up. The word love is not to be thrown around. You only love once, so treat it kindly and respectfully or it will pass you right by.

Dear Mr. Bavaresco:
I am 14 years old and my mother always says I'm still a little boy. She insists on picking out my clothes and I can't go out on dates until I'm 16. Also, I can't join any teen dance clubs because she says that bad kids hang out at teen dance clubs. What can I do?

Prisoner
Dear Mr. Bavaresco:
Your mother is wrong, but what she is doing she feels is for your own good. However, to hang on to your son can be worse than giving him freedom. If she doesn't give you freedom in moderation and then at 16 you have all this freedom at once, you will be so confused it will be uncontrollable.

She should let you make friends and go to teen dance clubs. They are all very well supervised. If she hesitates, tell her to phone the supervisor of the teen club you are interested in joining and talk with him or her and I'm sure her mind will be put at ease.

As for your clothes, ask her if you can pick out one set of clothes, just once. Then if she feels you did poorly, you and she will pick out your clothes as before. Try to convince her to let you do it once. Go alone, no other friends, and do a good job. This will give her the confidence she needs. Most of all be understanding. She is trying the only way she knows to protect you and guide you.

Times Wins Top Series Photo Prizes

Top journalism prizes in both state and Bay Area competition went to The Times last week.

The Times captured first prize in the California-Nevada annual Associated Press photo contest for newspapers under 200,000 circulation.

This is one of the most coveted photographic prizes in the state. The Times was the only local paper in the 200,000 class to capture a photo prize.

The winning picture was taken last summer by photographer Joe Botti of Redwood City and was used exclusively in The Times. Entitled "A Little Child Goes," it is a dramatic and poignant photo of a priest hurrying to give last rites to a child killed beside his tricycle near the Southern Pacific tracks.

The Times captured a "Silver Spindle" award for a community service series in journalism from the San Francisco Bay Area Publicity Club.

Competing in the class for newspapers under 50,000 circulation, The Times series on health and welfare problems in the county by staffer Bob Umphress won second prize. First place went to the Hayward Review.

The San Jose Mercury-News took top honors in the over 200,000 circulation class with a series on new job opportunities. Second place went to the Oakland Tribune and the San Francisco Examiner placed third.

The Times series on the county health and welfare problems was prepared by Umphress after two weeks intensive research. He has been with The Times for two years, rejoining the editorial department six months ago after a year's duty with the U.S. Army in Bogota, Colombia, following his recall into active duty. Capt. Umphress aided the Colombian army in setting up a public relations program.

A graduate of the University of Hawaii he did graduate work at Stanford University. Art Blum, president of the Publicity Club, noted that the prize-winners were all of high caliber but that the final top prizes went to series "which had depth and staying power—no one shot stories could be a winner."

He stated that The Times series had done much to correct misinformation on the county's welfare program. Awards were given at the Press and Union League club.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald complimented The Times: "The Times and Mr. Umphress are to be congratulated."

New President Chosen

OVER 400 BUSINESS and community leaders were on hand last week at the 1963 annual meeting of the San Mateo County Development Association, Inc., held in San Mateo. S. Clark Beise, president of the Bank of America, addressed the group on "Progress Through Co-

Publisher Heads Development Unit

J. Hart Clinton, editor and publisher of The Post and Times, civic leader and a leading San Francisco attorney, was elected president of the San Mateo County Development Association, incorporated, at its 1963 annual meeting last week at Villa Hotel.

Speaker at the meeting was S. Clark Beise, president of Bank of America and chairman of the Bay Area council.

Beise said: "If the Bay Area is to continue as a magnificent place to live, we must start doing something right now."

"We have to decide if we value the suburban sprawl above the open spaces and 'livability' of our area."

"And do we want to continue the indiscriminate filling of the bay to a point where one day we may have only a shipping channel?"

In a speech entitled "Progress Through Co-operation," the banker indicated that, while the Bay Area is in the vanguard of metropolitan areas throughout the world in preparing to meet the needs of the future, there still is much to be done.

"The tempo of our growth is speeding up, and we are going to have to act now to successfully meet the challenges that this growth will bring."

"Before the next 20 years have passed, there will be another four million residents in the area, and an added one million homes," Beise said.

The Bay Area council chairman pointed out that other problems which must be solved include "the crying need" for an area-wide coordinated mass transportation system. "If we can't get people and goods to and from the points where they are needed, our entire economy stands on shaky ground."

Beise indicated that another challenge of the future will be changes in defense spending. "While California can expect to retain its present share of the military budget, defense spending contracts can be expected to level off within the next few years."

"Today, more than ever before, the complexity and magnitude of the nine-county Bay Area demands that we cooperate with one another. No single county can afford the anachronistic luxury of thinking of itself alone."

A partner in the firm of Morrison, Foerster, Holloway, Clinton and Clark since 1941, publisher Clinton is also executive vice president of the Distributors Association, San Francisco; vice president of the Commonwealth club of California; president of the San Mateo county Historical association, and an active member in many local and Bay Area organizations.

New vice president is Lee Ham, president of Wilsey, Ham and Blair, Millbrae, former head of the municipal and county planning section of the local industrial development group, former grand jury foreman and industry's "Man of the Year" in 1959. Secretary is George Pottorff, regional representative of government relations for the Sperry and Hutchinson company. Treasurer is Victor Gile, vice president of the Bank of America.

District vice presidents elected were: W. B. Thigpen, district No. 1; Albert F. Schwarz, district No. 2; John E. Newman, district No. 3; Bernard Price, district No. 4; and T. Jack Foster Jr., district No. 1.

Elected a vice president-at-large is immediate past president Frank B. Ingersoll Jr.

Bank Merger Approved by Shareholders

Shareholders of Crocker-Anglo National bank, at a special meeting held last week in San Francisco, approved the proposed merger between Crocker-Anglo and Citizens National bank of Los Angeles by an overwhelming majority, chairman of the board Paul E. Hoover has announced.

Similar approval of the merger was granted by the Citizens' shareholders at a special meeting held in Los Angeles two days ago.

The merger, which now awaits only the approval of the controller of the currency in Washington, D.C., would be accomplished by an exchange of stock in the ratio of one and nine-tenths shares of Crocker-Anglo for each share of Citizens National stock.

The resulting institution, Crocker-Citizens National bank, would have assets approximately $3.2 billion.

With more than 200 offices in operation, it would be the second largest banking system serving both northern and southern California. In national ranking, it would be one of the 12 largest banks in the United States.

NEW MANAGER — Frank Derian has been appointed manager of the watch and jewelry repair department at Westlake Jewelers, according to owner Charles Maroosis. Derian's background includes 15 years in this field as owner of his own business, Maroosis said.

Devil's Slide Is Purchased

Devil's Slide, that huge chunk of rock on the San Mateo county coastside that has been noted for its murders, suicides and accidents, was sold by the federal government last week at auction.

The General Service administration will make the final decision on the bid of Gray Whale Cove real estate man Conrad J. Wageman. Wageman's winning bid was $22,103.

Devil's Slide is a 750-foot rock, with the property involved covering 9½ acres. Wageman said he considered it a fine place to build a luxury hotel or motel.

The spot has been in government hands since the 1890s and has been used by the army, air force and navy at one time or another. The navy has had it since after World War II but declared it surplus recently.

Recipients were Ronald Bjorkland of Jefferson and Gloria Moore of Westmoor.

Bjorkland plans to enter the University of California at Davis where he will be a pre-medical student for four years. He will enroll at a medical school after graduation.

Miss Moore plans to enter the University of California at Berkeley, where she will continue her education in the field of foreign languages.

The Rotary club awards the two scholarships each year as part of its community service program.

Terra Nova Graduates Enjoy All Night Party

Wednesday, June 26, 1963

The Post—2.1

Hefty Yawns at 4 a.m.

GETTING SLEEPY—Yawning for the cameraman at 4 a.m. are these three tired-looking party-goers. From left are Allaire Sawyer, Allen Bernstein, a guest of the graduates and Carol Ross. All-night party featured swimming, games and—finally—breakfast.

Dancing in the Wee Hours

NOT TIRED YET—Jim Cline and Madeline Hendricks don't show any signs of wearing out as the night goes on. Here, at 4:30 a.m., they're dancing up a storm, as the saying goes.

Reluctant Plunge

BIG SHOVE—Pat Bouchard wasn't quite ready to test the waters of Terra Nova's swimming pool but this unidentified "friend" decided she was and gave Pat a vigorous shove. Dunking came at 6:15 a.m.

POST-TIMES PHOTOS BY HOWARD FRANKHOUSE

Fortune Telling at 3 a.m.

FUTURE TOLD—Mrs. Jane Crow, playing the role of a gypsy fortune teller, gives an idea of what's in store for graduates Jim Cline and Madeline Hendricks. Fortune-telling was one of a pot pourri of activities in Terra Nova's all-night party. The school's P-TA chaperoned the event.

They Splashed All Night

WATER FIGHT—One of the most popular features of the all-night program was swimming in the school's pool. Here, graduates engage in a lusty water fight. At the time this picture was taken, the clock said 5 a.m.

And Finally Breakfast!

CHOW TIME—At the end of the all-night festivities, graduates gathered hungrily for breakfast, which, all agreed, was a great way to end the party. In this chow time photo, there seemed to be a bit of good-natured disagreement over some of the vittles.

Prescription Provides Tip

A medical prescription at an apartment raided by Daly City police two weeks ago led to the arrest last week of a suspected bookie.

Detectives Charles Terry and Lester Bastedo nabbed Milton Arthur Harrison, 35, at the San Francisco General hospital where he was under treatment for hemorrhoids.

Police had raided the apartment at 68 Westlake avenue June 5 after San Francisco police relayed information obtained in a similar raid there.

Police said Harrison was apparently tipped off by someone in San Francisco.

A quantity of bookmaking materials was seized and officers remained to take bets over the phone, they said. Bail was set at $25,000 cash or $50,000 bond.

Seek Expert In Probation

The county juvenile justice commission has recommended that an expert on probation affairs be hired to help with a $10,000 management study of the county probation department.

The commission agreed to send a letter to the board of supervisors requesting, first of all, that a professional agency be retained to make the study, if possible.

County Manager E. R. Stallings has recommended that the San Francisco firm of Griffin-Hagen-Kroger be hired for the job. The commission noted that the recommended consultant deals with management affairs in general and does not specialize in probation matters.

WATCH LOST
Corinne C. Biago of 197 Lake Vista avenue reported to police last week that she had lost her wrist watch while she was in the Westlake Shopping center. She said the watch was valued at $75.

Pacifica Plans Busy Summer Recreation Program

"WHAT'LL I do now, Ma?" is the cry heard in many homes about a week after the close of school.

When the novelty of the new-found freedom departs and the long summer months until September loom ahead, then — for many youngsters — city recreation programs offer a welcome outlet.

Pacifica youngsters have a busy season planned for them for the Park, Beach and Recreation department.

There will be trips to the zoo and to see the Giants play; baseball, softball and archery; all kinds of swimming lessons at Terra Nova pool and story telling at the library.

And if the family pooch is bored too, there are junior dog obedience classes Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. at the Pedro Point firehouse.

Pacifica teen-agers will have a new drop-in center program at Oddstad Recreation center in Linda Mar. The center will be open Wednesdays this month plus Fridays in July for ping-pong, badminton, dancing, shuffleboard or just a plain gab fest.

THE CITY playground program began Monday at six schools and the Pomo Park Recreation center in Sharp park. The Pomo park building was renovated for the city as a volunteer project by the Lions club this winter and is open for use.

Daily through August 18, the Pacifica summer playground program will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Pomo park, Sanchez, Pedro Valley, Vallejo and Westview schools; at Sharp park, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and at Pacific Manor school, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Weekly themes will spark arts and crafts, dance, dramatics, tournaments, special events.

Movies will be shown. Children will dress in costume for Hawaiian, western, fantasy, pirate and hobo days.

July 11, there will be an excursion to the Coca Cola Bottling company; July 25 to Candlestick park to see the Giants play; and August 8 to Storyland and Fleishacker zoo.

A softball league for seventh and eighth grade girls will be organized. The summer league boys baseball will be at White field and Oceana High school. Participating will be boys from 8 to 14 years.

To be eligible for the playground program, children must be at least six years of age or have completed kindergarten.

THERE WILL be tennis instruction at Oceana High school from now to July 18, and July 23 to August 15, from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 1 to 3 p.m. Archery classes will be at the Oddstad Recreation center.

Golf classes are being given at Sharp Park school for eight weeks. Social dancing will be Mondays and Wednesdays from 4 to 6 p.m. starting Tuesday at Oddstad center for seventh and eighth grade students.

High school dance classes will be Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. starting tomorrow and for adults, Monday and Wednesdays, from 8 to 10 p.m. starting Monday.

There will be a slow-pitch ball league for men and boys, Monday evenings at Terra Nova and Oceana high schools. Women's and girls' softball will be played Thursday evenings at Terra Nova. Adult volleyball classes will continue Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. at Terra Nova.

Story-telling programs at the libraries are being held Mondays at 11 a.m. at Sanchez and 1 p.m. at Sharp Park.

By DON MILLER

"WE NEVER stagger, we never fall. We sober up on wood alcohol . . ."

Or so the song goes. And all of which is a way of backing into this sobering thought for Daly City's guzzle and stagger mob:

That state supreme ruling back in May about intoxication in a non-public place being decidedly non-criminal doesn't mean a green light for heavy imbibing in such places.

Far from it, says Daly City Police Chief Roland Petrocchi in a memo to all members of the force.

In brief, says the chief, an officer can fall back nicely on a number of local or state laws to arrest the drinker who can't hold his liquor.

In the old days, old meaning before May of this year, a policeman could be summoned to a bar and arrest a patron for getting looped.

The soused patron would be charged under a section of the city ordinances that relates to intoxication in or about a public place.

Then the supreme court's ruling came along.

As a result, San Mateo County District Attorney Keith Sorenson has recommended to Daly City police and other police agencies in the county that:

"Where a person is drunk on private premises open to public view and where his arrest would not be valid under existing drunk ordinances, that the arrest of such person, if necessary, be made on some other applicable law . . ."

What Sorenson is saying and what Chief Petrocchi has thus advised his men is that officers can charge a drunk with violating another perfectly good state statute if the conditions warrant: Section 415 which basically is a disturbing the peace law.

Or if the drunk is in a bar but is neither disturbing the peace nor being offensive, yet refuses to leave at the behest of the bartender, applicable sections of the trespass laws can be brought into play.

So what it all boils down to is this: you can get intoxicated all right and not get arrested for it, per se. But just exhibit a bit of gowdiness or shoot off your mouth or slobber all over the bar and you're fully in line for a legal arrest.

And since the guy or gal who gets thoroughly plastered, yet continues to behave in a quiet, unobtrusive and inoffensive manner is a rare bird, it looks like the volume of drunk arrests isn't going to change.

A BARGAIN—Remember that giant-sized package, filled with goodies from merchants in the Westlake Shopping center, that was auctioned off by educational television station KQED a while back?

Well, some lucky woman bid $1200 for the package and her bid was tops. We say lucky because the box contained merchandise and merchandise certificates with a total value of more than $1,500.

The woman was busily collecting her prizes last week in the center and stores personnel say she looked like the cat that had bagged an extra large canary.

The package, incidentally, was shown on KQED one night and auctioned off the next. The station said it wasn't policy to reveal the successful bidder's name upon inquiry, even though the viewing audience heard it the night of the auction.

So if any of you viewers remembers her name, let us know. We'd like to let the rest of you know who she is.

CURLERS, YET! — A champagne preview of the press last week of the opening of Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum at Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco gave members of the free-loading set a startling sight they probably attributed to the champagne.

It was the Disciples and Jesus in curlers! The madame hadn't quite got everything finished in the wax department in time for the preview and the last exhibit in the museum was in such a state.

This was a tableau of the Last Supper with Jesus flanked by the apostles. Each of the figures wore a wig. And several of the wigs had large, round curlers—the type you'd buy in the dime store.

The explanation was that the hair, to look authentic for the scene represented, had to be curled and the curls just hadn't set by the time the press arrived.

As for the other famous figures in wax, some of the likenesses are remarkably well achieved and some all far short.

Winston Churchill, for example, looks precisely like the great statesman. However, his contemporary of World War II, Adolph Hitler, is a distant resemblance.

For one thing, Hitler is wearing a military uniform, which he rarely did and a cap, which he hardly ever was seen in. For another, the Hitler trademarks—the bushy mustache and the shock of hair over the left temple, are woefully inadequate.

As part of the preview shenanigans, the management hired photographers who took your picture with any of the wax figures you wanted to get cozy with.

Top favorite to get cozy with was Jean Harlow, wearing a gown cut so low there was a distinct danger of melting wax.

At least one figure turned out to be a fooler. It was a man, sitting straight-backed, in a chair that was in an unlighted part of the museum.

We saw a young fellow and his date approach the figure cautiously, wondering if what they saw was wax or somebody playing a joke.

The fellow finally leaned over the figure and declared smugly: "Aw it's somebody trying to make believe he's wax. There's a ham in every crowd."

The couple started to leave but apparently were not sure. The fellow halted, turned around, walked back to the figure in the chair and grabbed an arm.

Yep! You guessed it. What he grabbed was cold, very hard wax.

TABLES TURNED — They played a joke on Lloyd Sitts of Pacifica last Thursday night.

The outgoing president of the Pacifica chamber of commerce was gently ribbed in a slightly rehearsed skit staged by the chamber's board of directors at the group's annual installation dinner in Nick's restaurant.

Sitts often had presided at the chamber's monthly meetings in construction clothes. He's a contractor and rarely had time to dash home in the middle of the day to change attire for the luncheon sessions.

Thursday night, directors donned work clothes and lounge attire and gathered for a mock chamber meeting. They invited Sitts to sit in.

Sitts, who had carefully dressed for the dinner, was the only one wearing a tie.

The tables, the directors gleefully chortled, had been turned.

Planners Grant Revolving Sign

The Daly City Planning commission has approved a permit for a controversial revolving illuminated sign in the St. Francis Shopping center. Protests against the sign had been received from 34 residents in the area.

The permit, which had been approved earlier by the commission, was reviewed again at the request of the city council after a petition by the residents was received last week.

The sign, reading "liquors" on one side and "delicatessen" on the other is planned for the Lucky Seven Bottle Shop.

Residents argued that the revolving sign would set a precedent for similar signs in the center and would result in a "carnival atmosphere."

Mrs. John Bordman of 11 San Miguel avenue, and Fred Levy, 2 San Miguel avenue, appeared as spokesmen for the petitioners.

Planning board members pointed out that there are presently two revolving signs in the city and for this reason it would be difficult to deny the application.

The board also said that the sign would be over a recessed building and 600 feet from any home.

In other action, the commission approved a use permit for a soundproof pet hospital in the Skyline Plaza Shopping center.

The pet hospital at 1020 Southgate avenue will have complete medical facilities for the treatment of pets and for X-rays and surgery. There will be no boarding of animals.

The owners, Dr. Ernest A. Siegel, Edward C. Bland and Norman Green, operate a similar soundproof hospital in San Francisco. They said they have never had a complaint from neighbors.

The city engineer's staff will review the hospital plans for soundproofing.

He said that the district's attorney, Thomas Jenkins of a San Francisco law firm, would be working with the state on this possibility.

The vote to kill the measure was taken by the senate's Transportation committee after it had already passed the assembly.

Councilwoman Jean Fassler of Pacifica had appeared before assembly committees to argue in its favor.

Hill said that at the committee hearing, the attorney for the state public works department told senators that the matter could be handled in another way.

He explained the debt could be forgiven without passing a bill that might leave the state open to charges from other water companies.

North Coast county water district director Rusty Hill said this week there is a possibility the state will forgive the debt and not make the water district and local taxpayers come through with $200,000 needed for moving the water lines.

Real Estate Loans Increase

A 7.2 per cent increase in new real estate loans was recorded by Home Mutual Savings in the first five months of this year as compared to the corresponding period in 1962, according to Sherman Miller, executive vice president and managing officer.

With $7.3-million in new loans recorded during April and $10.7-million in May, loan volume for Home Mutual Savings for the five month period totaled $28.3-million. Through May of last year, new loans recorded were $16.5-million, he said.

Girl Saved From Pool

A 10-year-old girl nearly drowned at the Terra Nova High school pool in Pacifica last Tuesday afternoon. She was taken to Peninsula hospital.

Hospital attendants reported that Jeannine Joo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joo, 416 Fremont avenue, Pacifica, had responded to treatment.

According to Pacifica police, the girl was spotted at the bottom of the pool by a lifeguard, Ann Mori, who dragged her from the pool and administered artificial respiration until the arrival of a fire department inhalator squad.

Modern Living Marin Fair Theme

Modern living — how to enjoy it — will be the theme of the 18th annual Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross, July 3-7.

Leading landscape architects, professional gardeners, nurseries, and florists will compete for prizes in model gardens, floral art, plant collections, and specimen plant divisions.

The fair will offer a record $17,148 in cash awards to the exhibitors.

In keeping with the "Contemporary Moods" theme and the proximity of Marin's patios and gardens to metropolitan areas a special garden category has been set up for the pleasure of the commuter - gardener. Emphasis will be on ease of maintenance "by use of native plant material and blooming plants set in decorative containers."

Over 40,000 attended last year's show over the glorious Fourth to poke, participate and peer at painting, sculpture, photography exhibits, art-in-action, dine under the trees and enjoy opera, ballet and stage shows.

Nine major categories have been set aside for professional competitors. Entries include:

1. Full sun area, summer flowering plants: Egger and Son, Mill Valley and Kentfield; Phil Reedstrom, landscape contractor, Novato; William Mueller, nurseryman and grower, Berkeley.
2. Garden waterfall, blooming plants: George Murata, landscape designer, San Rafael; Rod McLellan company, South San Francisco; Lval Nickals, San Leandro.

7 Practical Tips for the Fisherman

With another big season of fishing moving into high gear, anglers are reminded that a little foresight can save you from losing the big ones.

Here are some tips that'll help keep your tackle in top shape:

Rod ferrules should be cleaned, lubricated, and resealed, if necessary.

Tip tops should be checked for tracks or rough surfaces.

Winding should be checked for wear and a light coat of varnish or clear finger nail polish applied where necessary.

Spinning reels should be disassembled and the mechanism checked, cleaned, and lubricated.

Replace line on reels and spools, or cut back old line 10 or 15 feet.

Remove corkscrew set from monofilament by spooling out line to casting distance and pulling on it with increasing pressure. Then rewind.

Lures should be checked for needle sharp points. Finish should be checked for wear and polished where necessary, then varnished.

Fish Merit In Nutrition Told to UN

In a statement coinciding with the opening of the World Food Congress in Washington, D.C., under sponsorship of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall calls attention to the nutritional advantage of fish and shellfish for the earth's populations.

Secretary Udall notes particularly the high-quality protein available in fish products and expressed optimism that further research in global laboratories would soon provide ways by which the great untapped reservoir of food in the oceans can be used to help feed millions of hungry people in other lands.

Fish protein is easily digested, the secretary says, making it ideal for special diets of children and older citizens. He added that fish is high in minerals and many vitamins and low in carbohydrates and saturated fats.

For example, he points out, the important nutrient found in tuna is a high-quality protein used for building body tissues. It also contains vitamins of the B complex and essential minerals such as calcium, phosphorus, iron, copper, and iodine. Tuna and other fish are rich in vitamins A and D, and a serving of salmon, tuna, or mackerel will provide about 10 per cent of the daily requirements of vitamin A and all the needed vitamin D.

The department's fish and wildlife service reports that United States canned salmon, tuna, Maine sardines, and halibut are in good supply and available nationally at prices attractive to all budgets.

Secretary Udall says research is underway to perfect a fish protein concentrate (FPC), a highly nutritious fish extract that has great promise for some day supplying low-cost, large-volume protein anywhere in the world. Current studies point to an odorless, tasteless FPC that could be added to the normal diet to increase protein consumption. Animal protein deficiency is one of the major dietary "gaps" in many nations.

Nursery, San Rafael, Harry Sumigawa, nurseryman, Cotati.

7. Floral arts exhibit: El Marin Florists, Mill Valley.

8. Fuchsia garden, appropriate companion plants: Lila Lillie, Pacific Plant Growers, Colma; Reedstrom.

9. Secluded area, modern fountain: William Fernando, El Cerrito; Mueller, Pacific Plant Growers.

Most of the professional model garden exhibitors will also enter collections of orchids, begonias, ferns, fuchsias, geraniums, hydrangeas or erysanthemums in Fair competition.

Judges for the show are Donald E. Erskine, Sunset magazine and landscape architects Jean Walton and Eldon W. Beck of San Francisco.

Quick, Ready Baby Formula Is Available

Finding a place to eat is often a problem for tourists. It's even more of a problem if the group includes an infant who's on formula.

For one thing, there's always the chance that variations in types of water across the country may make baby ill. Refrigerating and heating the formula, not to mention simply finding a place to mix it are equal problems.

Now a formula product has

Improve Summer Cottage For All-Year Enjoyment

Millions of families in all parts of the United States are now enjoying separate summer homes.

The boom in the so-called cottage got off to a fast start following World War II and has been gaining momentum ever since. Today mountains and deserts and plains and woods are filled with structures ranging from tiny ten-by-twenty bungalows to luxurious homes in the hundred-thousand-dollar class.

The trend has not been restricted to one or two areas, but has flourished all the way from the Atlantic seaboard to the Great Lakes states to the Pacific coast, providing a weekend, leisure time retreat for city dwellers.

Although such structures are intended primarily for use during the mild summer months, they can be converted at reasonable cost to provide comfortable living through the entire year, thus increasing their usefulness by approximately 300 per cent.

A board-and-batten structure can be insulated at minimum cost by nailing or stapling three-inch insulation between studs and joists or four inch in colder areas. Interior plywood or wallboard is suitable for wall surfacing to complete the job.

Heating a country cabin is a simple installation at moderate cost with a liquefied petroleum gas fuel system. Such a system is supplied from the LP-gas tank conveniently placed near the house to provide fuel at all times for various automatic gas appliances, such as kitchen range, refrigerator, water heater, room heater, clothes dryer, and—in remote areas—light.

An important advantage of an LP gas system is that it cannot be knocked out by wind or winter storms that may cut off fuel when it is needed most.

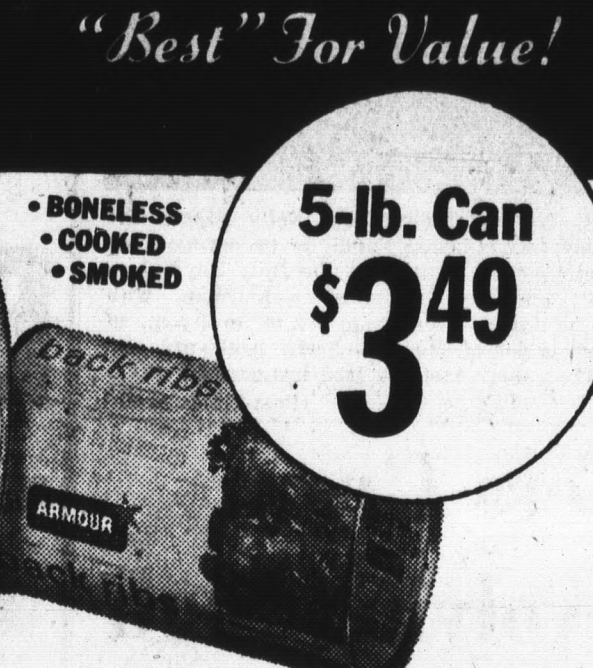

NEW YORK — While sunglasses come in all shapes and sizes, studies made by the National Notion association point to sectional preferences.

The South and Southwest prefer the pixie or small sunglasses; the Far West, the very large glasses; California prefers the black and other dark-hued frames; in the state of Washington there is an overwhelming preference for white frames.

Summer Can Be Picnic

It might be a good idea to make the weeks during summer and vacation months, "special" weeks for mothers and home makers.

The idea would be for the wives, mothers, and homemakers to gather the family and picnic foods and make their get-aways often, leaving all schedules at home. Only foods easy to pack and stack would be included, along with paper plates, cups and a thermos. It would be their time to lean back and relax.

APPLE TUNA SALAD

For this recipe, all you need is a seven-ounce can of solid pack tuna fish, drained; two large eating apples, cored and diced; one and one-half cups thinly sliced cucumbers. Mix together. Pack in your paper freezer containers along with another container of sour cream dressing.

Then combine one cup sour cream, two tablespoons cider vinegar, two teaspoons sugar, and pour over salad when ready.

HONEY LEMONADE

Combine the juice of lemon and 2 tablespoons honey in a glass. Add enough hot water to fill the glass to within 1 inch of the top. If you want it cold, add ice cubes.

Set Smart Party Table With Posies

You can have a "picnic" planing a summer party every bit as pretty as a banquet. Hot weather elegance is not a matter of slaving over a steaming stove all day long. It depends on simplicity—an easy casserole or barbecue specialty is perfect for the main dish. The drama is supplied by vivid colors in tableware, clothes, napkins and floral treatment.

Suggested summer party color schemes from leading decorators are combinations of bright blue and green or pink and orange. Others include yellow and deep green, or a stark white cloth with dark blue napkins and tableware. The dishes, glassware or linens need not be your best. Good, bold, clear colors are available inexpensively in plastic, glass or baked enamel.

Floral arrangements to complement all of the suggested color schemes can be selected by any FTD shop in the nation. They not only will make your table bloom, but are wonderful, easy-to-shop for hot weather gifts as they can be wired anywhere to blend with a friend's party decor.

For the blue and green table setting, FTD members suggest white gardenias and red roses in a blue compote dish. Pink and orange would take hot pink roses or carnations in a pretty basket. For the yellow color scheme, try tiger-type (Rubrum) lilies and lemon leaves. The stark white and blue should be set off with a bowl of bold red anthuriums or pink roses in a stemmed vase.

Now, all that is left is to send out the invitations. You won't have to worry about the reactions. You'll be known as the hostess with the prettiest table in town.

Safety Tips For All the Bicyclists

There will be more bicycles on the road this summer than at any time in history. Some 30,000,000 two-wheelers will be singing the song of the open road as tots, teenagers and senior citizens bike their way to fun and health.

This, then, is the ideal time to take the bike out of storage place in garage or attic, clean it, oil it, and have it checked by a competent bicycle service man to see that lights and horns are working, brakes are adjusted, pedals tightened, steering mechanisms adjusted, and handlebars firmly cemented.

A tip for parents: Youngsters are apt to have grown several inches since last season. To make sure Junior has a safe as well as a healthy biking season, have your bike repairman adjust the bike's saddle and handlebars to fit Junior's new dimensions.

It's important, too, that the rider be conditioned for "the road," and accordingly, the Bicycle Institute of American reminds cyclists of these 12 bike rules of the road for a safe, healthy and happy riding season:

1. Observe all traffic regulations, signs and lights.
2. Keep to the right. Ride single file.
3. For night riding, have a headlight, tail light and reflector, and wear light-colored clothing.
4. Have a workable horn or bell. Maintain safe speed.
5. Watch for cars pulling into traffic. Be careful of doors opening on parked cars.
6. Never hitch on other vehicles.
7. Carry no passengers or objects which interfere with vision or control.
8. Keep your bike in perfect operating condition. Make sure brakes are functioning properly.
9. Stop, look, and listen at all intersections.
10. Use proper hand signals when stopping or turning.
11. Ride in a straight line. Do not swerve or weave.
12. Avoid sidewalk riding. Always give the pedestrian the right of way.

Salmon Sandwiches Make For Real Honest Eating

Now that summer has settled down in earnest, it's a wonderful time of the year to plan your living out-of-doors with only the sky for a roof and to enjoy as many meals as possible at the beach, in the woods, around the barbecue, or right on the terrace or patio.

It's a time of the year to think about refreshing, light, yet nourishing lunches and, if you think about canned salmon, you'll never run out of ideas to fill the bill. All through the warm summer days, canned salmon is a life saver. You can toss salad after salad, fill hearty sandwiches to the brim with its colorful goodness, and know that your family will not only be well nourished but will never tire of the delicate flavor.

Sandwiches, today, are real food, served in a convenient form, without the need of knives and forks. There are many kinds of sandwiches, dainty paper-thin ones for tea, open-faced for hors d'oeuvre, and then the whole meal sandwiches for a perfect summertime lunch or supper. Use a variety of bread, not just white sandwich bread. Pumpernickel, whole wheat, oatmeal, and rye all make delicious sandwich breads and contain more honest nourishment than the breads made from bleached flour.

Traditionally, day-old bread is recommended for sandwiches but, if you are equipped with a sharp, serrated knife, even the freshest bread can be easily cut into thin slices. Keep the knife horizontal and cut with a sawing motion. Trim the bread, if you must, but it's better to leave crusts on the hearty sandwiches. Spread the bread with soft butter, whipped cheese, or mayonnaise and be sure that the filling is well-seasoned and moist. It should be soft enough to spread easily with a knife blade to the very edge of the crust. And in making luncheon sandwiches, the filling should be thicker than the bread.

Canned salmon makes an ideal luncheon sandwich filling. Just the color alone is filling. Just the flavor is appetizing and refreshing, but the flavor is appealing and combines perfectly with other salad ingredients, with mayonnaise or with French dressing. It remains moist and savory even when the sandwiches are made in advance. Wrap them in waxed paper or sandwich bags and store in the refrigerator until ready to serve.

SALMON, EGG SALAD, SANDWICH FILLING
1 pound can salmon
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ cup chopped celery
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 tablespoon French dressing
½ cup mayonnaise

Salt and pepper to taste
Drain and flake salmon and combine with remaining ingredients. Mix lightly but well. Makes eight hearty sandwiches.

SUMMER SALMON SANDWICH FILLING

1 cucumber, peeled and chopped
1 tablespoon minced green pepper
1 tablespoon minced parsley or dill
2 tablespoons chopped chives or scallions
1 tablespoon French dressing
½ cup mayonnaise

Salt and pepper to taste
Drain and flake salmon and combine with remaining ingredients. Mix lightly but well. Makes eight heart sandwiches.

Try Oatmeal Cookie Treat

½ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
½ cup cold water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon soda
3 cup oats — old fashioned
1 cup raisins
½ cup nutmeats, chopped
Blend shortening, sugars, egg, water and vanilla in a mixing bowl; add sifted dry ingredients and mix well; blend in oatmeal, raisins and nutmeats; drop by teaspoon onto cookie sheet. Bake 12-15 minutes at 350 degrees F. Yields—6 dozen.

Herbs Play Key Role in Dish

Herbs and spices play a key role in la cucina italiana. It is easy to duplicate it with a supply of pasta, a combination of tomatoes, cheese and olive oil, and a blend of seasonings.

If you were to select a single herb which is most typical of Italy, it would not be the widely publicized garlic, but rather basil. This is one of the several plants of the mint family grown as garden herbs.

Tagliarini includes tender egg noodles and tasty sauce from Noodles Italiano in a delicious combination of Italian-style sauce and spices, tempting juicy meat, colorful corn and tomatoes.

This is a quick easy way to bring the heart of Italy right to your dinner table.

Noodles Italiano is a delightful new casserole dish that may be prepared either on top of the range or in the oven. A filling mixture of Parmesan and mozzarella cheese accents the distinctively spicy tomato sauce to give the extra wide egg noodles a true Italian flavor, all in one package. Your family and guests will think you've been cooking all day when they see it.

Here is the recipe for Tagliarini. Add some crusty bread and a crisp fresh salad and you'll have an easy-to-prepare quick dinner with that wonderful Italian accent.

TAGLIARINI

1 lb. ground beef
3 tbsp. vegetable oil
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes
1 can (10 oz.) whole kernel corn with liquid
1 can (7 oz.) pitted ripe olives, drained and halved
1 pkg. Noodles Italiano
1½ cups hot water

Brown meat in hot oil in large skillet. Stir in remaining ingredients — except cheese filling from Noodles Italiano pkg. Cover; cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, about 25 min. Uncover; cook 10 to 15 min. more. Stir in cheese filling during last min. 6 to 8 servings.

Description: Hearty, tasty Italian dish of noodles, meat, tomatoes, corn and olives.

Bake dainty muffins, chock-full of fruits and nuts, in tiny paper nut cups or muffin tins. Prepare plain muffin batter. Add generous amounts of finely chopped fresh California dates, candied pineapple, cherries and filberts. Bake in hot oven about 10 minutes, or until done. While warm, roll lightly in sugar. Serve for afternoon tea or as hot bread with luncheon salad.

Shrimp and potatoes combine for an Hawaiian style curry.

Casseroles a World-wide Dish

If you've been thinking that casserole cookery is a favorite of good cooks only in America, we have a surprise for you!

Casseroles, it seems, are the answer to canny homemakers' round the world when they are searching for hearty meals that are "quick and easy on the cook."

We spent several hours recently browsing through cookbooks from all corners of the globe, and found flavorful meal-in-a-dish recipes in every book. One combination that we found intriguing was a shrimp curry. We tried it with frozen French fries and shrimp baked in a creamy curry sauce laced with chutney and topped with coconut and chopped peanuts.

The original version came from Hawaii... and we wager that when you serve this tasty casserole your family will rush out to buy you an orchid lei in appreciation for the palate-pleasing dinner. We suggest you not tell that it took only minutes in the kitchen to produce this praise winner!

Shrimp and Frozen Fries Curry Hawaiian Style

1-3 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
3 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt

2 teaspoons curry powder (or as desired)
2 cups half and half (milk and cream)
½ cup milk

½ pound cleaned, cooked shrimp, (about 14 to 18 medium shrimp)
1 package (1 pound) or 2 packages (9 ounce each) frozen French fries

¼ cup chutney
½ cup chopped salted peanuts
½ cup flaked coconut

Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add mushrooms and cook slowly until tender, stirring frequently. Blend in flour, 1 teaspoon salt and curry powder. Add half and half and milk and cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened. Fold in shrimp; heat.

Brown French fries in remaining butter or margarine and season with remaining 1 teaspoon salt, stirring carefully as needed. Stir in chutney. Turn ½ of French fries into a ½ quart shallow casserole or ovenware platter. Top with shrimp mixture and cover with remaining French fries. Sprinkle with peanuts and coconut. Broil, 3 to 4 inches from heat source, until coconut is toasted, about 3 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

Summer, Outdoor Living Mean Much to So Many

"Summer Living" means many things to many people — to some it's extended travel at home or abroad — others look forward to long week-ends; to many, for diversified reasons, summer living means the simple comfort of staying close to home and enjoying it.

It involves two things which are seemingly paradoxical yet related. The first is a love of participation — especially in such all-out activities as swimming, games, cooking. The second is the total enjoyment of these activities with a high degree of comfort.

No longer does an outdoor meal mean a limp sandwich or luke-warm coffee. Today, it can be as exotic as a Hawaiian luau staged in the backyard by torchlight or as formal as a lawn luncheon served al fresco.

To divide your summer at home, between the house and patio, is truly an art. The answer lies in the ingenuity exercises all over the country. Ingenuity that makes the most of your summer outdoors, and other ways to give the indoors a cool inviting aspect.

Camellia Is Plant of Week

"Sarah Frost," a deep, rosy pink-flowering camellia japonica with a willowy, rather sprawling habit of growth, is The Times Plant of the Week. This camellia grown as a hanging basket plant in the garden of the C. Ray Wilmores, Easton drive, Burlingame, has lovely large pink blooms in early spring and furnishes cool-looking, glossy foliage as a patio attraction during the summer.

Camellias are not new as pot plants, in fact some of the most consistent winners at the annual camellia shows grow their plants in containers so they can be wheeled under cover when rain or wind threaten the bloom. Growing them as hanging basket ornaments is fairly new and avid camellia fans are constantly alert for new varieties with the needed willowy habit of growth for this type of growing.

Frederic Heutte, superintendent of parks, Norfolk, Va., once wrote that "Any plant that can be severely pruned, even to the extent of being cut back to the ground, and survive to refoliate itself can be considered good 'container' plant material. This test a healthy camellia japonica can stand with flying colors." It can also stand having most or all the soil removed from its roots and if re-potted immediately in fresh soil it will live to re-establish itself. This fact was found out when Dr. Walter Lammerts brought in the now famous reticulatas from Japan. U. S. plant inspectors insisted all the soil be washed from the roots to prevent unwanted soil and plant pests from entering this country. Dr. Lammerts asked and received permission to do the root washing. The plants were inspected after they were washed, then wrapped in wet peat and taken to southern California for planting. Nearly every one of the famous plants lived.

Removing more than a small amount of soil from the roots is not recommended as it causes too much shock and may prevent flowering for a year or more. When a plant is to be repotted it should be lifted from its container as carefully as possible. If it is to go back in the same container, a one inch slice is removed from the root ball and the plant placed back as it was before. The space created by the removal of the inch slice is filled with a good potting mix and potted firmly into place. A broom handle or professional potting stick should be used so as to make sure no air pockets remain to cause trouble.

Every camellia fan has his own pet potting mixture. Before the present good potting soil mixes, camellias until they set the next year's crop of buds, then we were available commercially we used to use equal parts top soil, peat moss and coarse sand. To this we added a cup of charcoal chips and a cup of cottonseed meal for each 16-inch tub. This mix worked fine but we find it just as economical for our few plants to buy one of the commercial mixes.

Plants grown in containers need more shaping and training than those given those in the garden. This is because a container-grown plant is a show piece regardless of where it is placed. This is particularly true of camellia plants grown as hanging baskets. Trail-at new growth time, this spray branches should be thick too. On warm summer days spray the container. This is done by pinching and pruning to encourage growth in the right places. We never feed our newly potted plants a light feeding of an acid-reacting fertilizer. The amount depends upon the size of the plant. Amounts are shown on the fertilizer package.

Keep in mind that camellias cannot stand deep planting, even in a container. Allow space at the top for a two-inch mulch. Use a growing medium that will retain moisture without becoming soggy and have this medium only crumbly moist at planting time. Plan to include these potted camellias when spraying for aphids. When spraying for spider mites will take care of spider mites too. On warm summer days spray the foliage when watering, they love this extra moisture.

Hamburg Show Is Impressive

(Editor's Note: Iva Newman is touring gardens of Europe. This report is from The Netherlands and Germany.)

By IVA NEWMAN
Amsterdam is a beautiful city from the air. For some reason, our pilot circled before landing and we could see the city like a colorful jewel below us. Once out on the streets, we felt right at home as we could make out most of the signs although they were in Dutch and the cars were driven on the right side of the street.

Rokin street on which our hotel was located is a wide street with a row of beautiful Chinese elms down the center. It is a main street and full of traffic. Amsterdam is a city of 1,000,000 persons and 500,000 bicycles and from our hotel window we thought all those bicycles were parked on Rokin street. In addition to regular paved streets that seemed as wide as those at home, this city has 60 canals which are used for hauling various kinds of freight. We visited the flower market which lined one side of a canal for several blocks. Here we saw all the bulbs for spring planting and the annuals and perennials we see in nurseries at home. Each individual stall was only 10 or 15 feet long by six or eight feet wide, but they held an amazing amount of plant materials.

We took an extended tour through the countryside to The Hague where we visited the Peace Palace. The building and its furnishings were most imposing, but our interest lay in the large, well-kept garden which surrounded it.

Golden Rain trees and pink rhododendrons were in full flower. Copper beech trees were also used effectively. On a lower level, a series of pools was surrounded by an extensive rose garden which showed no color as the season was nearly a month late due to the bad winter and late cold spring. We visited the tulip fields at Haarlem, but the peak of the bloom was past and only late-flowering varieties were in flower. However, we were greatly impressed by the size of the tulip fields. They reminded us of the wheat fields of Minnesota for they stretched as far as the eye could see. We visited the famous flower mart where fresh cut flowers of every kind are bought by the truck load for shipment all over Europe. Not a word is spoken. The buyers make their bids by means of an electric but-trip, the Internationale Gartenbau-Ausstellung in Hamburg, Germany. We hardly had our feet on the ground until we were asking how to reach the exhibition.

This huge horticultural event is staged in a tremendous park called the "Planten um Blomen" in the center of Hamburg. As we entered the gates, a planting of several thousand tulips greeted us. Though we had missed most of the tulip bloom in Holland we

Save Trees Program Is Set by Club

A $15,000 program to save 100 acres of prime virgin redwood trees in Big Basin State park adjoining San Mateo county was announced last week by the Sierra club.

At the same time the club's Loma Prieta chapter, which includes San Mateo county, announced a drive for donations totalling $40,000 to buy the trees.

Some $115,000 has been raised for the purchase of timber rights to the Santa Cruz county land, purchased by the state in 1961, by the Sierra club, Save the Redwood League, the San Francisco Foundation, Varian Associates, private donations and $66,000 in unappropriated state park funds obtained by State Senator Donald L. Grunsky.

The owners of the timber, Frank McCray and sons Bud and Frank Jr., have agreed to an extended payment plan to allow the Sierra club time to raise the remaining $40,000.

The Sierra club said that if it is necessary it will borrow the needed money and use the contributions as they come in to erase the debt.

The Sierra club said that purchase of this stand of redwoods would complete protection to the northern watershed of the Waddell creek and Berry creek area. Resembling a rain forest, the sloping canyon holding the grove contains three waterfalls and many ferns.

The state bought the land in 1961, but money was not available to buy the timber rights from the timber owners, the Big Creek Timber company. The McCrays subsequently acquired the timber rights from the Big Creek lumber company and agreed to cut less desirable timber in the tract to allow conservation groups time to save the prime 100-acre stand.

IN HANGING BASKETS

Put Those Plants Up in the Air

By IVA NEWMAN

When you look over your garden and realize that you cannot squeeze another plant in without taking something out that you still cherish, it is time to take to the air. There is a wealth of plant material that can be grown in hanging baskets or pots for both shady and sunny situations.

Pot gardening is a special type of gardening with a special set of rules. It requires the gardener mony, Joyce, Lavender Basket, Red Wing, San Mateo, and Trailing Autumn, are old varieties that are true trailers and good beginner plants for the gardener just starting with hanging basket growing. Unless you are willing to give each plant a little extra time, better shy clear of varieties marked "semi-trailer," as these have a tendency to grow upward and must be trained into a trailing form.

Several varieties of roses can be grown in hanging baskets. Whereas fuchsias want plenty of shade, roses need plenty of sun. Any of the polyantha types roses that have a tendency to sprawl can be grown into beautiful hanging baskets. The one we have grown in this manner is "The Fairy," a little pink-flowered beauty that is easily grown from cuttings. This little rose will have thousands of blooms open at one time making a most beautiful picture. Any of the climbing miniatures, such as "Pink Cameo," "Scarlet Ribbon," "Little Show-off" (yellow splashed red), "Orange Elf," "Magic Wand" (light red), or "Climbing Jackie"

(ivory-yellow), can be grown as trailers in a hanging basket. They will need more frequent watering and consequently more frequent fertilizing than the shade grown fuchsias. These roses are even more showy than fuchsias because they are more unusual. Here again the climbing canes must be gently coaxed to a trailing position with weights. The fuchsia people cast their own weights but the weights used by fishermen look well and do an excellent job.

Geraniums
Nearly every one has seen and enjoyed the vining or trailing ivy-leaf geraniums grown in hanging baskets. Keep in mind the deeper colored varieties need a more sunny location than the lighter shades. In fact the lighter shades are better in a semishady location. For the sun try "Intensity" (bright red), "Mexican Beauty" (intense blood-red flowers), or "Willy" (very double and very dark red). For semishade there are: "Snow Drift" (double white rose-bud form), "Princess Victoria" (light pink with crimson penciling on petals), or "Barbary Coast" (large lavender flowers).

HOMES & GARDENS

to know and understand the needs of his individual plants for they must depend upon him for every bit of their sustenance, in fact their very existence depends upon his care. He must be willing to water when the plant needs it and not at his convenience and he must keep in mind that the feeder roots are confined, they can not reach out and forage for food as they do when they are grown in the garden. Hanging basket plants are just pot plants that have taken to the air.

The most avid and successful group of hanging plant growers we know are the fuchsia growers. Every one of them have from one to a hundred pots and tubs containing fuchsias hanging above their soil grown plants. One look at the long aisle just outside the main floral building at the Fiesta, filled to overflowing with beautiful, well-grown trailing fuchsias, convinces you that the hanging basket form of gardening deserves much wider use.

Fuchsias
There are certain types of plants that lend themselves to hanging basket growing—much more easily than other types. In the realm of fuchsia it is the varieties labeled "trailers" that make the most beautiful baskets and are the easiest to grow in this manner. Red Spider, Har-

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the recently founded Western Horticultural society.

The object of the society is the advancement of horticulture in all its phases, especially in the western United States. Local chapters are encouraged to organize within the society.

The first general meeting of the as yet unnamed Peninsula chapter of the Western Horticultural society will be held in Palo Alto on September 9, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will feature a speaker and a plant materials exhibit and discussion of selected flowers.

had seen tulips in quantity in England, Ireland and Scotland and now again at Hamburg. That first day, we also took time to enjoy the iris plantings which were also at the peak of their beauty. However, our first thought was for the American "Party Garden" exhibit designed by James Rose.
